G-MEN JOIN IN WPA SIDEWALK QUIZ AT SHELBY

Check Reports WPA Labor and Materials Used in Work on Private Property.

CONSTRUCTION HALTED

District Director Says Nine Instances of "Illegal Practices' Found.

G-men and WPA investigators today were conducting an investigation in Shelby of reports that WPA labor and materials had been used in the construction of sidewalks on private property.

J. L. Kelley, director of WPA in district six, said at Columbus that all sidewalk construction in Shelby had been suspended for the balance of the year when it was disclosed that nine separate instances of the "illegal practice" had been uncovered.

Lay Sidewalks, Driveway.

Kelley said the private construction work included the laying of new sidewalks on private properties and the construction of at least one driveway and the laying of a cement garage floor.

It was reported from Shelby that the construction work involved at least one city employe and a city official.

Mayor D. B. Young and Gail Haun, Shelby public welfare clerk and city sidewalk inspector, said they did not know the work had been done without the proper authority. Both said they had not authorized the construction.

Supervisor Suspended.

Meanwhile Kelley said that Major M. Robertson, 3 Lafayette avenue, Mansfield, under whose supervision the walks had been laid, had been permanently suspended from WPA.

Kelley said that Robertson had been superintendent of sidewalk construction in Shelby and asserted that preliminary investigation had shown that he had been responsible for arranging the private projects.

He explained that the "irregular practice of carrying on construction which was not on an easement or pertinent to a specific project" was uncovered by WPA inspecting engineers.

According to federal regulations, Kelley said it was necessary to make a report to the Federal Bureau of Investigation which immediately sent an agent into Shelby to check the irregularities and have since found additional information.

"No action will be taken until federal agents have completed their investigation and reported their findings to the WPA head-

DRIVING LICENSE SALE DATE SET

You Can Get Yours on and After Sept. 15, and You'll Have to Have It by Oct. 1.

Notice to the 20,000 owners of driving licenses in Mansfield and Richland county: You will be able to get your new licenses on and after Sept. 15, and you HAVE to have them by Oct. 1.

That was the word that came out of Columbus today, from Frank West, registrar of motor vehicles.

The Richland County Automobile club is expected to be headquarters here for issuing licenses, as it has been in the past, although Frank Beverstock, club secretary, had not yet been notified of his appointment as deputy registrar.

Licenses were supposed to have gone on sale Sept. 1, but the usual delay has occurred, and as a result drivers will have only two weeks instead of a month to obtain their new licenses.

The cost will be the same as in the past—40 cents, of which 25 goes to the state and 15 to the deputy registrar. Chauffeur's licenses will cost 90 cents.

ELECTION TOPS U. B. CHURCH SESSION TODAY

Barberton Minister Renamed Conference Superintendent for Fourth Term.

REPORTS MEMBER GAINS

Evangelist, Former Mansfield Pastor, Calls for Rally Against Paganism.

Election of officers, committee reports and addresses by church leaders were on the schedule today as delegates to the 53rd annual East Ohio Conference of the Church of the United Brethren in Christ opened their second day's sessions at the First United Brethren church, Park avenue east.

Rev. B. S. Arnold, Barberton, was re-elected conference superintendent for his fourth consecutive term at this morning's session. Other officers were to be chosen this afternoon.

Represent 100 Churches.

Delegates continued to arrive in the city today from the more than 100 United Brethren churches in eastern Ohio, and more than 200 delegates and pastors were expected here by afternoon.

Sessions which will continue through Sunday morning are in charge of Bishop A. R. Clippinger of Dayton. Pastor assignments will be announced Sunday.

Addressing the conference last night, Rev. J. C. Massee, D. D., Atlanta, Ga., evangelist and former pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church of Mansfield, called on the church to rally its forces against the inroads of a pagan world which, he said, are being felt more strongly now than at any time in the history of Christianity

Cites Needs of Christianity.

"The urgent need of Christianity and the Church today is to touch and transform life about it," he asserted. Using St. Paul's letters as a basis for his talk, Rev. Massee pointed out that the church is made up of men and women of all walks of life who have been transformed by the power of Christ in their lives.

Rev. Massee was to speak again shortly before noon today on "The Gospel Entrusted To Us."

An encouraging conference report was submitted this morning by Superintendent Arnold who told the pastors and delegates that the conference had obtained a net gain of 494 new members during the past year. More than 1,350 persons acceded to the church by confession of faith in the last conference year, he said. Present membership is 20,977.

The report showed that churches in the conference reduced their indebtedness against their properties by $35,000 last year, while more than $38,000 was spent for improvement and repair of church properties.

During a memorial service for deceased members and pastors yesterday afternoon, Bishop Clippinger said that for the first time in several years, no member of the United Brethren ministerial

Crash That Cost Count His Life

In the wreck of a small car, far from his native Spain, the Count of Covadanga, once heir to the throne of Spain, suffered injuries that cost his life. He bled to death, a victim of hemophilia, hereditary blood disease. Below is pictured Miss Mildred Gaydon, cigaret girl in a Miami night club, who was driving the car at the time of the accident. Miss Gaydon, who said she swerved her car to avoid a truck, and hit a telephone pole, has been formally charged with manslaughter. The count will be buried in an exile's grave, far from the Spain he might have ruled, had things been different in his native country.

'FRAME-UP' TO BE DEFENSE IN RACKETS TRIAL

Tammany Leader's Attorney Calls First Witnesses as Dewey Ends Case.

FILES DISMISSAL PLEA

Counsel Prepares to Request Court for Acquittal Verdict in Opening Appeal.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK—The defense of Tammany Leader James J. Hines opened today with a plea for dismissal of the 13-count indictment that may send him to prison on charges of having sold protection to the Dutch Schultz lottery racket.

Defense Attorney Lloyd P Stryker was to present a motion assailing the character of most of the state's 51 witnesses: branding 4,000 pages of testimony a "frame-up," and arguing that the charges were erroneous and that lottery banking was of itself a trivial offense because people bought the chances voluntarily.

Tells of Warning.

He was attempting in one swoop to destroy the state's case that closed yesterday after a witness told of a prophetic warning made to Hines and the gangsters three years ago: That they would find the newly appointed rackets investigator, Thomas E. Dewey, "a rough, tough, relentless prosecutor."

Stryker was to submit copies of his motion to District Attorney Dewey and Judge Ferdinand Pecora. Court was to convene this afternoon for arguments of the motion. It was believed that the arguments would require the rest of the day and that a recess would be taken until Monday, when the first defense witnesses will appear. A recess had been called for Friday because of the funeral of Patrick Cardinal Hayes Saturday is a customary court holiday.

Attorney Testifies.

The state's final blow was delivered by James D. C Murray, a criminal lawyer, who testified that in June, 1935, he was approached by J. Richard (Dixie) Davis, general counsel for the Schultz racket Davis asked him to go to a golf course where they were to meet Hines

Davis, who was indicted with Hines, pleaded guilty and turned state's evidence, previously had said that he took Murray with him because he was having trouble convincing Hines of the seriousness of the appointment of Dewey as rackets prosecutor, and he believed Hines might be impressed by hearing Murray's ideas

LONDON — (AP)—The British cabinet was summoned today to meet next Monday, a few hours before Reichsfuehrer Hitler is expected to make at Nurnberg, Germany, a speech which may tell Europe whether there will be war or peace over Czechoslovakia.

(By United Press)

LONDON—A secret conference of the highest officers and officials of the defense services has been convened in London because of the central European crisis, it was understood today.

One version was that the conferees were discussing the advisability of making public the precautionary measures the armed forces have taken quietly during the last two weeks.

This news was disclosed as Maj. Clement Attlee, leader of the Labor party, demanded in behalf of the Labor party and the British trades unions that the government summon parliament at once to take the lead in a line-up of Europe's democracies against the Nazi reich

All Leaders Summoned.

Petitions Flood Election Board on Last Day to File

Ask Vote on Local Option In Shiloh, Cass Township. Non-partisan Park Board; Independent to Run.

A flood of referendum and nominating petitions descended on the Richland county board of elections today, the 60-day filing deadline before the November election.

The referendum petitions seek a local option vote on beer and liquor sales in Shiloh and Cass township and a vote on a proposed non-partisan parks governing board in Mansfield

The nominating petitions were filed by Mark H Myers, Jackson township, candidate for county commissioner on an independent ticket. Myers' seven petitions carried 470 signatures, although he needed only 250 to place his name on the county ballot in November

Seek Beer, Liquor Vote.

Filed by Ronald Howard, of Shiloh, the local option petitions ask a vote in November on the sale of both beer and hard liquor in Shiloh and Cass township. In the village 165 signatures were obtained on the petition opposing the sale of beer, while there were 155 names on the petition against the sale of hard liquor. The beer petition needs 102 names and the other 44, election board officials said.

Petition carriers in Cass township obtained 187 signatures on the petition involving the sale of beer, and 188 on the other. It requires only 44 legal signatures to place the liquor sale issue on the township ballot and 108 to make an issue of beer sale in the township.

Petitions for local option vote in Springfield township were filed two days ago. Three townships in the county, Weller, Franklin and Worthington, already prohibit the sale of intoxicants, election board officials said.

Twenty petitions with a total of 1,062 signatures were filed by Paul W. Williams, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, asking a referendum on a parks board for Mansfield.

Sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, the movement seeks to "take the parks out of politics" by turning the city parks administration over to a three-member board to be named by the mayor.

The vigilance of a schoolboy patrolman this morning probably saved the lives of several small children when he kept them on the curb although they had the right of way while a state employe wheeled his car through a red light at Park avenue west and Douglas street at 45 miles an hour.

Arraigned in municipal court an hour later Daves, a consultant in the state department of public welfare, pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs.

Kyler testified that he had "clocked" the car at 45 miles an hour and was right behind him when he "crashed the light" at Douglas street.

American Homes and Schools Rearing 'Little Fascists', Psychologists Told

Self-Government Lacking Among Children, Says Conference Speaker.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Little Fascists, instead of democratic-minded children are being reared in the majority of American homes and schools, the American Psychological association was told today.

This assertion came out of an experiment at the Yale university Institute of Human Relations, made and reported by Dr. O. H. Mowrer. The average home and school, he concluded, has too much "authoritarianism" and too little self-government among children

He tried self-government among children from two to 14 years old at the New Haven children's center. Infractions, he said, decreased at a remarkable rate. When small boys made holes in window screens, mosquitoes drove home to the children the idea of co-operation.

Critics said he was making tattlers, destroying proper respect for adults and making the children sadistic. He claimed it worked the other way and that adults get more of the children's respect.

"Democratic self-government for children," Dr Mowrer reported, "effectively encourages real independence of a kind that probably makes for the development of individuals who are less susceptible of being exploited than those who as children were intimidated and rendered submissive by autocratic authority.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

INTERNATIONAL LEADER TO SPEAK HERE OCT. 11

Lena Madesin Phillips, a Foremost Leader of Business and Professional Women, Will Address Mansfield Club During National Week.

ANNOUNCEMENT was made today by the Mansfield Business and Professional Women's club that it had secured Lena Madesin Phillips as its speaker for the observance of National Business Women's week. She will speak here Oct. 11, at a dinner meeting at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Miss Phillips, associate editor of Pictorial Review, and president of the International Federation of Business and Professional women, is one of the world's foremost leaders of women and is said to be an excellent speaker.

She has held many national and international offices in women's organizations and in the interests of her affiliations and her magazine work has traveled in every state in the United States and in 21 foreign countries. She is tremendously interested in national and world politics and is a shrewd analysist of men and their times and of the complex factors that underlie the present economic and political unrest.

As an interpreter of present day problems Miss Phillips probably has few superiors among women today and because of that is constantly in demand on the lecture platform.

She has spent considerable time in Geneva at the headquarters of the International Federation of B. and P. W., attending the International Labor Conference, and the League of Nations. She has met and talked with many world figures including Benito Mussolini.

Because of Miss Phillips' address at the October meeting, this will be the most important program of the club year, according to Miss Nina Pollock, club president. The club's first meeting for the new year will be held Sept. 14, with Gretchen Reighard, Mansfield's only professional woman flyer, as the speaker.

It helps build up more physical resistance and thus aids in giving you more pep and lessens distress from female functional disorders.

The council, of which Mrs. David Boals is president, has announced that it is sponsoring a comprehensive program of parent and adult education, with Miss Nona Marie Wilson of Columbus, as director.

Miss Wilson who comes to Mansfield for the year from Akron where she worked with the University of Akron and the Federation of Women's Clubs, will work with the 13 units of the Mansfield Council.

The first study course for parents will be for a ten weeks period and will include such subjects as home making, consumers' buying, child psychology, and contemporary reading. When the beginners course has been completed a more advanced course will be offered parents who are interested.

While parents education has always been the objective of the Parent-Teacher groups, and a number of prominent authorities on the subject have been brought to Mansfield from time to time by the Council, this is the first time that a full-time instructor has been brought to Mansfield to work entirely with parents.

Miss Wilson's experience has been varied. Five years were spent with the state department of education of Ohio as extension teacher of Adult Homemaking. She was also county Home Demonstrations agent of Ashland county for four years, taught school for four years, and has had experience as a social service worker.

She attended Marysville college, at Marysville, Tenn., and received her Bachelor of Science degree in Home Economics at Ohio State university.

CHAPTER 36.

"So he's in love with you, is he?" Noel asked thoughtfully, still not understanding the reason for the traces of tears around Laurie's eyes.

"Yes, he is. And why shouldn't I love him back?" Laurie exclaimed with a sudden hoarse emphasis that was entirely foreign to her usual voice. "I did love Jimmy," she went on in a lower tone. "I wanted to marry him, and have his babies I've always been alone. I never had any family at all, and you just don't know what it would mean to me. And if I can't have Jimmy, then I can have Pete Comtepas His children will probably be as nice as Jimmy's, except—of course. I know they won't," Laurie suddenly broke off with a sob

Noel held her closer "You funny, funny kid Don't you know a girl can't fool herself into thinking she can love a man just because he wants to marry her?"

Laurie got up found a handkerchief and walked to a window Then she came back and faced Noel again "I made up my mind I was going to be sensible," she began. "You can be sensible, you know, if you try very hard. I'm tired of living in hopes that Jimmy's mother will die. I admit that I've been doing that, even though I know it's wrong But she's as healthy as a 16-year-old She'll never die," she exclaimed passionately.

* * *

Then suddenly contrite, Laurie went on, "Of course, I don't really want her to die, Noel, it's just that sometimes—I almost believe I do. And it's not right for anybody to have to wait for somebody to die before she can have her happiness And so Pete loves me you see—'

"But, Laurie, even if he does, you can't, you simply can't make yourself believe you love him You mustn't do anything reckless There's a very special reason why I'm asking you not to Promise you won't," Noel urged.

Laurie shook her head "It's too late. I'm going to marry Pete Comtepas tomorrow."

* * *

NOEL DIDN'T make any further effort to change Laurie's mind after she said so firmly that she intended to marry the cafe proprietor the next day

But that didn't mean that Noel had given up trying to stop her She remained awake until she was sure Laurie was sleeping Then she tiptoed out into the hall to the telephone Jimmy had given her his telephone number during the time Laurie was ill

When she called his number, a rather harsh female voice answered. 'I'd like to speak to Jimmy please, Noel said

"He's in bed where he ought to be at this time of night," the harsh voice came back. "I'm not going to wake him up to talk to anybody " The receiver came down with a bang, which hurt Noel's ear. She hoped her ear-drum had been spared. What an unpleasant person Jimmy's mother was

But even after such a rebuff, Noel wasn't ready to give up The next morning she was up before Laurie had awakened Noel had a number of things to do Pack her small effects Get Jimmy on the phone somehow someway. See Julian and tell him where she was going to work. Also tell him about Nick's ugly insinuation, which she hadn't done last night See Chris.

First of all, Noel phoned out to Hichens and told him to tell Mrs. Garwood she would be there ready to go on duty at 11 He seemed about to remonstrate with her, insist that she come earlier But evidently he changed his mind For some reason she didn't understand, both Mrs Garwood and Hichens were extremely anxious for Noel to have this place So Noel felt that there was no danger of losing it now

* * *

Laurie certainly didn't look like a girl who was facing her wedding day Her eyes were swollen with tears, but when Noel came back from telephoning, she was up fixing some toast and coffee

"It'll be the last time we have coffee together," she said, opening a can of evaporated milk

"Of course it won't you silly dear," Noel said cheerfully "I'll have days off and I'll also be seeing you at the De Luxe "

"Well, anyway," Laurie went on "we're both getting out of this dump That's something Though I suppose," she went on, looking around the room, "there are worse places "

Personally Noel doubted that She, too, gazed about the room with unconcealed relief Laurie had never stopped wrestling with the dust and grime, but the room had a tired, unhappy look, as if no effort on earth could possibly cause it to perk up

After Laurie was gone, Noel went to the telephone again to call the Barton Stove and Spoke company. A pleasant voice answered, which she recognized as John Fletcher's She told him that it was very necessary for Jimmy to see Laurie at the De Luxe cafe this morning before 10 o'clo

'Anything wrong with Laurie?' John Fletcher asked interested

'Something will be terribly wrong," Noel said She'll be married to the—the wrong man, if he doesn't get there You'll please see that he does won't' you?"

* * *

John Fletcher promised whimsically that he would have Jimmy there if he had to bring him himself in a wheelbarrow. Noel thanked him with a laugh.

The next thing she did was to go to Julian's office It was 10 minutes past 9 when she went through the revolving doors of the Medical Arts and up to his floor.

When she opened the door of the waiting room, she was surprised to find it empty except for Ruth Chester who was arranging some flowers in a tall vase on the table.

She looked up at Noel, her expression disdainful "Surely you're not ill at this hour of the morning?"

"I was never better in my life," Noel rejoined "I want to see Julian before he gets busy."

"He's always busy. Never has a minute to rest He was up all night last night with a patient who died at sunrise this morning. I don't think you should insist on seeing him now."

"But I do insist " At that moment Noel heard Julian's step in the consulting room, so she moved to the inner door and knocked lightly The door opened Noel knew she had never seen Julian look so haggard and worn He said quickly 'Anything wrong, Noel?'

She shook her head. "There were just some—things I didn't say last night I intended to but didn't " Then she said, "I'm so sorry about you—patient, Julian

A shadow came into his tired face "They called me this morning about 2 But there wasn't a thing I could do " Then he looked at her and smiled "So you are just as pretty in the morning as any other time, aren't you?"

"I'm glad if you think so anyway.' Noel tried to say lightly Then went on "I came to tell you that I'm going to work out on Belvedere, the place I told you about, the governess job remember?"

He nodded, and she thought his face lighted, but his voice came casually, "What about Hollywood?"

"I decided not to accept the offer.'

* * *

Julian walked to the window Perhaps he didn't want her to see his face He came back in a minute and said in a restrained voice, "Should you have done that?"

"Oh, yes, I'm quite sure I should have " Now was the time to tell him about Nick though she had known from the first it wasn't going to be easy.

'Julian," she began, "Nick Luigi, the man who runs the Peacock, did—try to give me a lot of trouble. Somehow he also got an idea that we—you and I were engaged. It didn't do any good for me to tell him differently. And he made a sort of threat against you. I've been uneasy and I thought you'd better know so as to be on your guard"

Julian threw back his head and laughed. "Don't you worry about that A man like Nick Luigi is always a coward without a gun He might make a threat but that's all there'd ever be to it"

"But, Julian, everybody says he's in some kind of racket And I've heard that he carries a gun always, though I've never seen it"

"If he does, I'll be careful never to get within speaking distance of it" he promised with a smile

'Just be on your guard, just in case—" but Noel didn't finish, for suddenly she saw that a grim expression had come into Julian's face

"I want you to promise me, Noel that if this man ever so much as speaks to you again, you'll let me handle it."

"I promise," she said.

Then Julian once again was looking at her with a smile. "So you're not going to Hollywood you are going to stay here and stick it out?"

"Yes."

"The Garwoods are a very fine old family One of the most prominent in town," he said 'You'll be protected there I'll feel much better about you"

'I'm glad" Noel laid her hand in his "Then goodby, Julian, until I see you again'

He held her hand for a moment the whimsical smile coming again to his eyes 'Goodby Noel You're not forgetting that we have agreed to be the very best of friends"

"No I'm not forgetting" With that she went out closing the door softly

Ruth Chester was not in the waiting room but there was the tall vase of [illegible] baby's breath The girl was clever—the flowers would be a constant reminder of her presence

Noel went by to see Chris Then an hour later she was on her way to the Garwood home

Don't Let Constipation Drag On!

Do you often have days when you wake up tired—when you feel dull, sunk 'all bogged down"? It's time you did something about it. And something more than just taking a physic! You should get at the cause of the trouble!

If you eat what most people do—just bread, meat, potatoes—chances are that just this fact is responsible. you don't get enough 'bulk" And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft bulky" mass in the intestines that helps a bowel movement.

If this is your trouble, what you need is crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. It contains "bulk" plus Nature's great intestinal tonic, vitamin B.

Eat it every day, drink plenty of water and see if your old sparkle doesn't come back! Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

CLERKS TO HELP CUSTOMERS BUY

They'll Be Taught Special Courses by Government.

PORT ARTHUR, Tex.—(AP)—The federal and state governments will sponsor a course here this fall to instruct store employes how to teach "scientific buying" to the public.

If the plan is a success the course will be taught in other cities. Clerks will be instructed how to answer intelligently such questions as "How can rayon be distinguished from silk?" "How to tell wool from wool-and-cotton?" "How to tell good soap from bad?"

4 IN FAMILY DIE

School's Opening Postponed For Funeral of Students.

DAYTON—(U.P.)—The opening of St. Anthony school here was postponed until Wednesday because of the funeral of four members of one family today.

Thomas Mylor, sr., 45, Mrs. Helen Mylor, 42, and their sons, Thomas, jr., 14, and Robert, 12, victims of an automoblie collision near Lebanon last Friday night in which three others were killed, were buried today.

SUIT DISMISSED

Standard Oil Wins in Fight Over Fair Trade Laws.

DETROIT—(U.P.)—Judge Arthur E. Gordon has dismissed warrants charging the Standard Oil company of Indiana with violation of the Michigan fair trade laws.

The company was charged with selling gas at tank car prices to Samuel N. Gershenson, operator of the Merchants Supply company, who in turn sold the fuel to Neds Auto Supply company, in which Gershenson is a partner. The complaint charged that Neds Auto Supply thereby obtained gasoline at a price 1½ cents cheaper than that paid by most retail dealers.

Judge Gordon ruled that "the state failed to show probable cause that any crime was committed."

It was the second such case dismissed. A third is pending.

FORMER INDIAN DESERVES BIG HAND FOR FINE JOB OF PILOTING SYRACUSE

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK—(AP)—A love story authored by Henry Armstrong six months ago is being given the once over in the RKO studios in Hollywood . . . Six man football is being seriously considered by some of the smaller schools down in Virginia . . . Al Hostak may lay his middleweight title on the line against Fred Apostoli here in November, but we doubt it . . . Strongest drink in Harlem is the Joe Louis cocktail which goes over the bar for only a dime.

DICK PORTER

There may have been bigger soft ball tournaments in the country, but you name 'em . . . The Houston Chronicle put on a show which drew 126 teams and some 1,700 players and they had to turn down out-of-town entries . . . Give Dick Porter a big hand for a swell job of managing at Syracuse . . . He took over a last place club and now has it on the second rung of the ladder. . . . George Koverly is the new "big bad wolf" of the wrestling combine . . . He's the bird they put in to give the works to Dr Patrick O'Callaghan, the visiting fireman from Ireland, who turned out to be just too much of a wrassler for everybody's good.

Old Vinnie Richards, who knows his tennis, thinks Adrian Quist was the victim of "over-officiousness" in the cup matches . . . Great Britain Just About 'In'

MANCHESTER Mass —(AP)— Great Britain's women golfers had the Curtis Cup all but packed for shipping across the Atlantic today as they met the United States team in the six singles matches of the biennial competition. A victory for the British team would be the first since the cup was put in competition in 1932

The British team leading 2½ to ½ established their margin yesterday as Mrs. A M Holm and Clarrie Tiernan defeated the No 1 U S. team of National Champion Estelle Lawson Page of Greensboro, N C., and Maureen Orcutt of Haworth N J 2-up. Mrs Jessie Anderson and Elsie Corlett beat Mrs Glenna Collett Vare of Philadelphia and Patty Berg of Minneapolis 1-up and Mrs J B Walker and Phyllis Wade earned a half with Marion Miley of Lexington Ky and Kathryn Hemphill of Columbia, S C

Pirates Five Games in Front Today as Result of 7-1 Win Over Cincinnati.

By SID FEDER

Associated Press Sports Writer.

THEY'VE ordered the lumber at Forbes Field in expectation of a Pittsburgh half to the 1938 world series. but—

The Cubs are coming to life and have climbed back to second place. The Giants are taking strides along the road back. The Reds can't be counted out.

Hot In '21, Too.

And everything's all set for a whacky climax to this daffiest of seasons—something like a repetition of the 1921 affair, when the Bucs started the world series building additions while riding along on a six-game lead, then dropped five straight to the Giants, and were never heard from after that.

Still the Pirates are five games in front of the pack today, as the result of the 7-1 whipping they handed Cincinnati behind Bob Klinger's six-hit elbowing yesterday. And with only 26 games to go, you can't sneeze at a five-game margin — particularly now that Rookie Klinger is definitely over his "sore-arm-itis."

The Reds, by losing to the Bucs, who are alternately blazing and frosted these days, dropped down to third place, and the Cubs took over the runner-up spot with a 7-5 decision over the St. Louis Cardinals This was the Cubs fourth straight success

The Giants got some effective pitching from Rookie Johnny Wittig, recent importation from Baltimore, and made it two straight over the Boston Bees by a 6 to 3 margin

The American league race, however, continues to be just a business of playing out the string. The Yanks, boasting a 13-game bulge, are due to arrive at the pennant slinching ceremonies in something less than two weeks, despite such interruptions on the way as the 11-4 kicking around they were handed by the Boston Red Sox yesterday.

Jimmy the Flailer Foxx had one of his large days in this one and whacked two homers and a double to drive in eight runs in a clash cut to six innings by rain

A Mound Masterpiece.

The Sox remained deadlocked for second place as Cleveland's Indians stretched their undefeated string to nine games with a 1-0 pitching classic over the Detroit Tigers. Mel Harder's curves allowed the Tigers only two hits as Harder bested Slicker George Coffman

George Caster tossed a six-hitter and the Athletics whipped Washington's Senators 5-2. Hugh (Losing Pitcher) Mulcahy fooled the folks by handcuffing the Brooklyn Dodgers with three hits—an event in his young life—and pitching the Phillies to a 6-3 decision before a tremendous crowd of 500 fans

Ward Cuff's Boots Win for Giants

NEW YORK—(AP)—Put this on the cuff. To be exact, credit it to Ward Cuff, one of football's great place-kickers, who booted the "foot" back into football last night.

Cuff, a lanky young man who labored unsung in the great Marquette backfield of 1936, kicked two terrific field goals, one from the 42-yard line in the second quarter and another from the same spot in the fourth to whip the eastern college all-stars for the New York Giants, 6 to 0.

Cuff's two hoists dealt wholesale misery to most of the 40,382 on hand at the Polo Grounds to watch the third game sponsored by the New York Herald Tribune's fresh air fund.

Tribe Returns Home With Nine In Row

Continues Warfare With Detroit Today.

CLEVELAND—(U P)—The Cleveland Indians returned to their home park today after a road trip to every other city in the American league on which they won 12 and lost eight.

Indian fans can remember the time when that record would have been wildly cheered but the figures do not tell the story of the Tribe's sad collapse on the first part of the journey. They dropped two out of three games to Boston and five out of six to New York, their closest rivals for league honors.

So the men of Oscar Vitt apparently have been trying to redeem themselves by their current winning streak which reached nine games Wednesday. Mel Harder blanked the Detroit Tigers at Detroit, 1 to 0, on two hits to achieve his 15th victory victory of the season

The veteran moundsman had to be at his best because the Indian war clubs struck only four blows off George Coffman and Jack Wade, pitching for the Tigers. The winning run scored after Roy Weatherly stole second base and romped home on Bruce Campbell's single. Lyn Lary had started the rally with a single but had been forced at second by Weatherly.

Earl Whitehill was expected to pitch for the Tribe today against Tommy Brides of Detroit when the two teams switch their warfare to League park.

U. S. No. 1 Star Will Become First to Gain Sweep If He Wins American Title.

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK — (AP) — Donald Budge, the eminent amateur, has a great deal more on his mind than a shock of red hair as he starts out after his fourth major tennis championship of the year tomorrow at the West Side club in Forest Hills

If he wins this one, the Oakland swatter will become the first player in history to sweep the Australian, French, British and American championships in succession and the value of such a feat will be more than considerable when he gets down to talking turkey with the professional promoters this winter

Conversely, a defeat would stamp him as something short of invincible and would be taken into due account when the contract is drawn up for his grand tour with Elly Vines and Fred Perry

That is why Big Red is carrying around a somewhat worried look—that and the fact that he hasn't been able to shake a sore throat he contracted in Australia six months ago, or bring his game to anything like its peak. An examination by a throat specialist here yesterday gave him little encouragement

According to the draw sheet Budge should meet Adrian Quist of Australia in the semi-finals next week, and then come face to face either with the ambidexterous Jack Bromwich of Australia or tough Bobby Riggs in the final.

Women Bowlers Meet at Meder Lanes Friday.

Plans for the Mansfield women's bowling league will be discussed at a meeting to be held at the Meder Recreation alleys at 8 p. m. Friday. All women interested in bowling in the league are urged to attend the meeting.

MID-ATLANTIC TEAMS OPEN PLAYOFF TONIGHT

PORTSMOUTH—(AP)—The Mid-Atlantic league's four top flight teams clash today in the first of five-game series opening the Shaughnessy playoff.

The Portsmouth Red Birds, 1938 champs by a half-game feather, take on the slugging third-place Springfield Indians here while Canton, 1937 leader but runner-up this season, invites into her parlor an arch rival of long standing, fourth-place Akron.

THE current baseball series between the Rex Billiards and Mansfield Colored Giants will be concluded with the "rubber" game at the Fairground at 2.30 p m. Sunday.

Tygers Show Offensive Power In Scrimmage

OFFENSIVELY speaking, Coach Russ Murphy's Tygers will be pretty tough this season if yesterday's initial scrimmage can be taken as a criterion

Or, as Mr. Murphy says the team will be "weaker than the deuce on the defense"

Anyway, Murphy and his assistant, Harry Mehock, were well satisfied with the offensive power the Mansfield high school grid candidates displayed in their baptism in actual combat.

Using Capt Rich Nagle, Al Schwaner, Dick McMullen, Red Lemunyon and Ike Smith among others, in the backfield the team Murphy labeled as "varsity" ran up so many touchdowns that the Tyger mentor quit counting after 10 had been scored

Murphy was particularly pleased with the manner in which the club timed its plays both in running and passing. Schwaner, Nagle Lemunyon and Smith completed virtually every pass they attempted with the former tossing 40 yards for a completion Jack Dugger Bill Russell and Mike Horvath stood out on the receiving end of the aerials

Schwaner, McMullen and Nagle were outstanding in the backfield blocking with Lemunyon Smith and Howard Hersney shining as ball toters.

The offensive line play was featured by the performances of Harold Gallagher Jack Schwartz Joe Lenz and Bob Guegold.

MODEST RALLY REDUCES EARLY STOCK LOSSES

Steel Shares Under Pressure From Opening as Leaders Register Declines.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—The stock market weakened and then firmed up today. Leaders opened heavy and then showed losses running to 2 points in blue chips in the first hour.

Toward midday a modest rally developed and losses were cut considerably on reports that the negotiations would be resumed.

Steel shares were under some pressure from the opening, and losses ran to a point and more in such issues as Bethlehem, Crucible and U. S. Steel. The declines were halved later.

Chrysler fell over a point and then reduced its loss to a fraction while General Motors regained half of a point loss.

In the high-priced list Westinghouse started a point lower and then added another point before meeting support.

The rubbers came back easily U. S. Rubber scored a small gain after being lower, while Goodyear recovered virtually all of a point loss.

American Telephone halved a loss of well over a point. Western Union was weak. Oils and utilities were down fractionally. Rails suffered sizeable losses in the first hour weakness and then came back about halfway.

Elects to Serve Jail Term Rather Than Give Apology

ASHLAND—Jack B. Lentz today elected to spend five days in jail rather than make a public apology after he was found guilty of contempt in common pleas court.

Future developments will determine whether he will have to serve the time. Judge C. C. Chapman fined Lentz $10 and costs and ordered him to serve five days in jail unless he apologized to Mrs. R. L. Kreiling, in a contempt citation growing out of alleged violation of an injunction. Bond of $100 was set pending a rehearing or appeal.

He was cited for contempt of court on charges that he was exercising control over a strip of land between the Lentz and Kreiling homes on Maple street. Lentz had previously been enjoined from exercising control over the strip of land.

POLITICS make strange bedfellows. To which we'd like to add that the game offers some soft berths, too.

A Washington artist painted an apple so realistically that the picture was nibbled by rats. He should have painted a trap somewhere in the scene.

The expert who advises golfers to practice indoors to music during the winter surely doesn't mean swing music, does he?

A San Diego man charged with intoxication told the judge he was celebrating his divorce, obtained 25 years ago. Sounds as if it might be permanent.

The song goes, "Let freedom ring!" But businessmen also would like to hear the cash register sound off once in a while.

BRITAIN HOLDS SECRET PARLEY

Calls Army, Navy Leaders to Conference on Strength of Defenses.

letter to Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain. He acted in pursuit of a joint manifesto issued by the national executive of the Labor party and the general council of the British Trade Union council, representing nearly half the voting strength of the country.

Denounces Germany.

The manifesto, issued at Blackpool after a meeting last night, denounced Germany and demanded that parliament meet to take "a positive and unmistakable lead for collective defense against aggression and to safeguard peace."

Attlee's letter arrived in Downing street just as Chamberlain did. The prime minister had canceled his vacation plans and hastened to London to take charge of the Czechoslovak minority dispute. He was soon in conference with Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary; Sir Alexander Cadogan, permanent foreign under secretary, and Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer.

The rupture of negotiations between the Czechoslovak government and its German minority, because of alleged "brutality" by Czech police and soldiers toward Sudeten Germans, had precipitated a new crisis.

Leaders were worried not only because they believed that there must be an agreement of some sort before Monday, when Adolf Hitler is to make a full dress foreign policy speech at Nurnberg, but because the charges now made by the Sudeten Germans were similar to charges made by Austrian Nazis six months ago, before Germany seized Austria.

The government only a week ago decided to instruct Sir Nevile Henderson, its ambassador to Germany, to tell Hitler personally that it seemed impossible that Great Britain could avoid joining France if she went to war over Czechoslovakia. Early this week, the government changed its mind, believing that as any such warning was likely to anger Hitler, it might be better to reserve it as a last move.

It was understood that Chamberlain and Halifax were considering today whether the time for this last move had not arrived. Henderson is at Nurnberg, where Hitler is attending the Nazi party annual rally, and is waiting for instructions.

Hitler Orders New Czech Negotiations.

NURNBERG, Germany — (AP) — Adolf Hitler ordered Sudeten German leaders today to renew negotiations with the Czechoslovak government after a break in the autonomy talks had given Europe its sharpest war scare in weeks of tension.

Hitler, self-styled protector of the Sudeten Germans, had ordered the negotiations suspended yesterday. His change of mind, it was said, was because of his desire to convince the world he was leaving nothing undone to find a peaceful solution of the crisis.

Konrad Henlein, Sudeten German leader, returned to Nurnberg this morning after a hurried overnight journey to Czechoslovakia, which he took at Hitler's behest.

An informed source said the Sudeten fuehrer ordered his followers to remain calm and refrain from intensifying the conflict while his negotiations with Hitler, and Hitler's with Britain, are in progress.

Henlein hastened home after receiving reports that the "horsewhipping" of a Sudeten deputy by a Czech policeman in a border town had caused a rupture of the Sudeten-Prague government negotiations.

Henlein told his followers to reopen those negotiations, informed persons said.

There was no immediate meeting of Hitler and Henlein after the latter's return, for the German fuehrer spent all morning in the tenth annual congress of the Nazi party and left after lunch to attend a Nazi athletic meet.

Britain Urges Czechs To Settle Dispute.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia—(U.P.)—Viscount Runciman, British adviser, has appealed directly to the government to placate Sudeten German leaders and permit resumption of negotiations in the minority dispute, it was said authoritatively today.

Fearing that the situation had reached the explosion point after Sudeten claims of police "brutality," Runciman asked Premier Hodza to give the German minority leaders satisfaction and to guarantee the preservation of law and order.

So angry was the tone of Sudeten German party spokesmen that Runciman and government leaders alike studied the situation with the idea in mind that the Mahrisch-Ostrau region, where the latest incidents occurred, was a possible breeding ground for war.

Sudeten party spokesmen said there could be no more minority negotiations until the incidents had been settled in a matter satisfactory to them.

OPENS SCHOOL BOND CAMPAIGN

Union District's Drive for $75,000 Issue Begins at 2 Meetings Tonight.

Union rural district school officials will open their campaign for a proposed $75,900 bond issue for a new building with two public meetings tonight at elementary schools in the district.

The building plan, which calls for the construction of a $138,000 grade and high school in Franklin township, will be outlined at meetings at the Amoy and British schools, Supt. V. B. Moffett of the Union schools, said.

The bond issue will be submitted to voters in the two-township district at a special election Sept. 20. An anticipated $62,000 PWA grant would provide the rest of the funds for the school.

Other campaign rallies are scheduled for Friday night at the Pleasant Grove and Pleasant Valley schools in the district, Moffet said. A final rally will be held Sept. 16 at the Union rural high school in Weller township.

RECOVERS FROM FALL IN SHAFT

Insurance Salesman Drops 16 Feet In Downtown Building.

Joseph Parrott, 59, 625 Park avenue west, an insurance salesman, was improving today at his home from injuries suffered Monday morning in a fall into the elevator shaft of the Walpark building.

Parrott suffered a fracture of the right leg, arm and leg lacerations, and body bruises when he fell from the first floor into the pit of the elevator shaft, a distance of about 16 feet. He was going to his office in the building, and because it was dark in the lobby, he did not see that the elevator was not at the first floor when he stepped into the shaft, according to reports of the accident.

Kelley pointed out that individuals concerned however faced federal grand jury investigation for "abusing the government agencies for private gain."

"The procedure in the past has been to turn the claims, which in this case total approximately $400, over to the WPA for collection. No court action is followed unless the claim is uncollectable."

Kelley added that when the irregularities were uncovered in Shelby that he had immediately called for a recheck of all sidewalk projects in district six which includes Richland county.

WPA inspecting engineers have been working in Mansfield for the past week and "so far" everything has been found to be in "perfect order," he said.

THEATER

THIS AND THAT: Famous picture dogs in the past have always worked under their own real names, but Asta, who became famous in the "Thin Man" picture, is billed with a character name as are human actors. Asta's off screen name is Skippy. In his new picture, "Topper Takes a Holiday," he'll play the role of Atlas. . . . Although M-G-M paid $50,000 for "Pepe Le Moko," from which "Algiers" was made, the studio will make a nice profit on it, for it has turned out a smash hit in spite of Heddy Lamarr's not so good acting. . . . Janet Gaynor, whose romances have brought her a lot of publicity, is said to be really serious about Adrian, M-G-M's famous dress designer.

* * *

Small Town Story.

Bobby Breen's most ambitious picture to date, "Breaking the Ice," shows the 11-year-old star in a series of adventures when he runs away from home in order to make money enough to send his widowed mother to the man she loves. Dolores Costello is his mother and characters in the small town locale are played by Charlie Murray, Robert Barrat, Dorothy Peterson and others. Irene Dare, 6-year-old ice skating star, is a featured player. It's at the Madison.

Join the Navy.

Join the navy and see the girls is the moral of "Give Me a Sailor" in which two navy men, Bob Hope and Jack Whiting, pursue Martha Ray, but at least one of them changes his mind when he sights a Cinderella sister, Betty Grable. There are some new songs and both girls generously display below-the-knees pulchritude. The picture opens at the Ohio today for a three day showing.

Contrasts.

The exciting capture and canning of tuna fish off the coast of California, the activities of fishing fleets in Pacific waters and life behind prison walls, are all nicely juggled to make an exciting story of "Prison Break" in which Glenda Farrell and Barton McLane are featured. The picture, together with a Western starring Charles Starrett, "Law of the Plains," is at the Majestic.

"Hawaii Calls."

Young Bobby Breen holds down two screens in Mansfield the last of the week for his "Hawaii Calls," in which the youthful tenor sings several sweet and low melodies, is being offered at the Ritz Friday and Saturday. In his support are Ned Sparks, Irvin S. Cobb, and Raymond Paige and his orchestra. Two old favorites "Aloha" and "Macushla," are sung by the youngster. Bob Steele in "Desert Patrol," is the second feature.

ASK RAILROADS FOR RATE SLASH

U. S. Wants Cut On Wheat Exports To Solve Crop Problem.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The department of agriculture has asked Eastern and Southern railroads to reduce freight rates on wheat for export in an effort to facilitate disposition of a surplus of 100,000,000 bushels.

The request was made by acting Secretary of Agriculture Wilson. The proposal was similar to a request made recently of the chief carriers in the East which was turned down by the Association of American Railroads.

Wilson said details of the proposal had not yet been worked out, and that the request was made to obtain the sentiment of railroad officials.

PESTS BLAMED

Mosquito Poison Believed Cause of Explosion, Death of One.

CHICAGO—(INS)—A tenement fire in which one man died was blamed today on mosquitos. Investigators said the building had just been sprayed with an insecticide to get rid of the pests and it was believed explosion of the poison caused the blaze.

Book of the Week

LETTERS OF HENRY ADAMS: 1892-1918." Edited by Worthington Chauncey Ford; (Houghton Mifflin, $4.50).

* * *

There are hundreds of reasons why the second volume of Henry Adams' letters should be read, but the most important will be, inevitably, their honesty. It is true that they also are almost unique, for letter writing as a practice is dying if not dead, and these superb productions are as lonely as those people on Wake Island. But honesty is more important than rarity.

Adams was, as everybody knows, a member of a family secure in financial, social and political circles. There was literally no man Adams needed to fear, and no reason for him to swallow his opinions. He had in addition leisure, although not perhaps as much as a superficial survey of his life would lead one to think. Finally, he had friends worth corresponding with, and the result is the book published this week.

These caustic letters originate in all sorts of odd corners—Mont St.-Michel one day, Egypt a little later. In an atmosphere of constant physical change, Adams himself remained as nearly a fixed quantity as a man can, and this is important. One knows he is intelligent, untrammeled except in family matters, anti-Semitic, a genuine liberal politically though with string drawing him toward his friends, an amazingly keen observer. So one can evaluate his opinions almost at once.

They are mostly brilliant. Kipling, for example:

"I imagine Kipling to be rather a Bohemian and wanderer of the second or third social order, but he has behaved well about his young woman and has run in the face of family and friends who think him a kind of Shakespeare, and wanted him to marry the Queen or the Duchess of Westminster."

And this odd bit, for an Adams: "With a communism I could exist tolerable well, for the commune is rather favorable to social consideration apart from wealth; but in a society of Jews and brokers, a world made up of maniacs wild for gold, I have no place. In the coming rows, you will know where to find me. Probably I shall be helping the London mob to pull up Harcourt and Rothschild on a lamppost in Piccadilly."

Books For Children

Older boys and girls will enjoy "The Devil's Highway" by Richard Summers. This is a story of Lower California some 300 years ago.

The author studied the records left by Padre Kino, Spanish Jesuit, and a great deal of the book is historical. It was the Padre who explored and mapped Lower California. He established many missions, the most famous being San Xavier, near Tucson, Ariz. It is still in use.

In the story, Laredo Gil, a young Spanish soldier sent to aid Padre Kino, "unearths the plots woven by evil men to fire the Indians against the missionaries."

MANSFIELD'S MODERN THRIFT THEATRE

"Air Conditioned The Westinghouse Way"

"One tornado and three Hopi Indians . . . please!"

A STRANGE REQUEST? Not at all—in the world of the films. Today the call may be for "a tornado and three Hopi Indians" . . . tomorrow, perhaps, it will be for a trained ostrich and a replica of a 13th Century castle . . . and the day after for an under-sea cavern and a Roman legion.

Whatever the demand, it must be met—regardless of how difficult or how costly. Whatever a picture needs to bring it to life, it gets. Casts numbering thousands are costumed . . . equipped . . . rehearsed. Nature in all its many moods is captured to perform before the camera's eye. Scholars search the archives of history . . . expeditions fare forth to the far corners of the earth . . . specialists of every sort and kind are called in—to make a picture ring with sincerity, speak with accuracy.

And that is just a small part of the wonder-world behind the scenes where motion pictures are born.

Into the making of a picture goes the work of brain and hand of the men and women of 276 arts, sciences and professions—collaborators with the great writers and composers, the directors and players whose names you see on the screen.

Before a picture unfolds its story, artists and architects, designers and draftsmen, bricklayers and carpenters have labored—erecting sometimes whole streets or entire villages . . . building and furnishing slums and palaces—

Lighting experts, musicians and mechanics, sound effects technicians, set dressers and seamstresses have worked day and night—each contributing his or her part to create the picture you see—each helping to make motion pictures what they are today—your best entertainment.

Around the corner from your home—everybody's home—there is a world quite apart from the one in which we live . . . a world into which each man and woman who sits in the darkened theatre enters and becomes a part—leaving the world of reality behind.

Here in this other world are brave adventure and tender romance. Here are side-splitting laughter and tense emotion. Here are music and drama. Here is LIFE.

Day after day the motion picture weaves its magic about the minds of millions of men and women. For them—we hope for you—the movies make this old earth a better, happier place. We who make and exhibit motion pictures like to think that they have brought more pleasure to more people at less cost than almost anything else the mind of man was ever responsible for—and have done the human race more downright good than all the medicines concocted since creation.

* * * *

This fall—with the motion picture standing on the eve of its Golden Jubilee—it is fitting that the Motion Picture Industry should have outdone itself to bring to you as fine an array of productions as you have ever seen in a single season.

There are, as you will see from the list below, pictures of every kind—to suit every taste and match every mood. One after another they are coming to your favorite theatre—offering you entertainment, relaxation, freedom from care in overflowing measure.

700 MILLIONS IN 'NEW MONEY' SOUGHT BY U. S.

Treasury Seeks Funds With Which to Pay Spending Program for Jobless.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The treasury asked the nation's investors today to lend it $700,000,000 in "new money" to help pay for the administration's spending program and to build up a huge temporary cash reserve.

At the same time, Secretary Morgenthau offered new securities to refund $433,460,900 worth of notes maturing Dec. 15, bringing the total of the financing operation of $1,133,460,900.

The treasury officials said they anticipated little difficulty in borrowing the money because the banks alone have $3,000,000,000 of idle funds available for investments and loan.

The proceeds of the financing and of quarterly income tax payments, due next week, will give the treasury a cash working balance of about $2,500,000,000—one of the largest in history and five times what is considered necessary in normal times

Considers War Possibility.

Morgenthau denied flatly that the size of the borrowing was influenced by the possibilty of a European war—an event which might paralyze capital markets temporarily.

In treasury circles it was suggested that the reason was a desire to take advantage of currently low interest rates in the money market.

Proponents of the "cheap money" explanation pointed out that since business appears to be on the upgrade, private enterprises might soon be competing with the treasury for capital in the money markets and interest rates might rise.

The banking situation faced by the treasury in its borrowing was described by the federal reserve board as one in which "at the present time the country's volume of deposits is near the all-time peak reached at the end of 1936, while the turnover of these deposits is at the slowest rate on record."

Individuals and businessmen, the board explained, have about $47,500,000,000 on deposit, but so far this year have made comparatively little use of their liquid funds For instance, in New York City where the volume of checks cashed is normally 80 times the average of deposits, the recent turnover has been only 25½ times and the average turnover of the preceding three years was 30 times. In 100 other leading cities, where the normal turnover is 36 times, the recent rate has been only 19½ and the rate of the previous three years was 22 times

The treasury borrowing will send the direct federal debt to the unprecedented total of $38,300,000,000, or $22,000,000,000 more than it was at it post-war low on Dec. 31, 1930

Posses Armed With Six-Shooters Hunt Stage Coach Loot

TAYLOR, Ariz.—(U.P.)—Westerners heavily laden with six-shooters galloped their horses through the canyons and timbers 25 miles south of here today seeking the first stage coach bandits in a generation.

The bandits held up the stage—now a truck rather than a horse-drawn vehicle—in the White mountains and looted the mails of $38,000. It was a robbery after the ancient tradition, though in modern dress.

The truck carries the mail and passengers from McNary, Ariz., a railroad point, to Holbrook, Ariz Yesterday Joseph Ison drove it around a curve in Bull Hollow canyon and was confronted by an automobile placed cross-wise on the road. He had no choice but to stop. Two bandits, masked in the by-gone way, six-shooters in hand, stepped out of the car.

One bandit forced Ison and his brother, Bob, to turn their backs and reach for the sky while the other went through the mail bags

Roper Says Nation Shows New Trend Toward Recovery.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Business, on the basis of scattered reports, indicates a steady process of recovery since about mid-June, Secretary of Commerce Roper reported today.

Retail sales improved in August although the gain was less than seasonal, he said, adding:

"Desultory reports since the Labor day holiday show gradual improvement in retail trade probably influenced by favorable weather, the end of the vacation season and the opening of school."

WOMAN'S STORY SPURS SEARCH FOR KIDNAPERS IN CALIFORNIA

(By United Press)

MARYSVILLE, Cal.—A story told by Mary Blake, 28, of being held prisoner by three men whom she suspected of being the kidnapers of Mrs. William R. Meeks, 55, was investigated by Sutter county authorities today.

Arrested on charges of intoxication at Salinas yesterday, Miss Blake, who said she was a San Francisco seamstress, was brought here by plane after talking with Police Chief Marcel Lapierre, of Salinas

She said she met the three men Monday in a San Francisco bar and was forced to accompany them in a trip over "backroads" to the Salinas area Late Tuesday night, she said, she escaped.

Continued references of the three men to the Meeks kidnap case in Sutter county roused Miss Blake's suspicions, she said. She said one of the men remarked "we should have cut off a finger and sent it to that husband of her's"

Another of the trio, apparently referring to the escape of Mrs Meeks from the kidnapers' hideaway on Bear river after being held their blindfolded for three nights and two days, remarked that "we should have taken her to a shack and held her longer," Miss Blake said.

In the back seat of the car, Miss Blake said, were blankets fitting the description of one given Mrs. Meeks. She said there was an automatic in a dashboard compartment and that the men told of numerous "jobs."

Her story, authorities indicated, had been checked thoroughly here but had led to no new clues to the kidnaping

ARRESTS RISE

Two More Held for Receiving Stolen Auto Tires.

Arrests in a tire theft ring smashed by police last week rose to 15 today as Police Chief Meade K. Bates anounced that two more persons were charged with receiving stolen property.

They will be arraigned before Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch in municipal court tomorrow along with Sam Brucato, rear of 268 North Main street, whose case was continued last week.

The men are held in connection with receiving tires stolen from freight cars by four youths who were sentenced in probate court yesterday. Three of the boys were sent to the reformatory, while the fourth was ordered to the Boys' Industrial school at Lancaster.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25 cents. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

PENSION SCRAP DRAWS RETORT FROM BERRODIN

'To Hell With This Squabble,' He Says of Davey's Fuss With Federal Board.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Henry J. Berrodin, chief of the Ohio Division of Aid for the Aged, declared today, of the controversy between Gov Martin L. Davey and the federal social security board over pension administration, "to hell with this squabble."

"I'm not interested in the politics of Washington or Governor Davey," said Berrodin, who failed to appear Tuesday at a board hearing in Washington, at which it was threatened to shut off federal payments to the Ohio pension fund.

"I'm interested in the cause, and I have taken it on the chin already to further the cause."

The pension chief disclosed that he had made airline and hotel reservations to answer the Washington summons when Governor Davey ordered him to cancel them.

Hurled 'Politics' Charge.

In "boycotting" the hearing, Davey wrote to the board a "date" to cut off pensions, and accused it of playing "dirty politics" in favor of his successful Democratic primary opponent for the gubernatorial nomination, Charles Sawyer.

Berrodin, accused with Davey by the board of injecting politics into the Ohio pension administration, was closeted today with Rep W. H. Whetro of Ironton and former State Senator Robert A Pollock of Canton two leading advocates of pension legislation.

Whetro, an organizer for the American Federation of Labor, said he was asking the executive committee of the Ohio Federation of Labor to hold a special meeting and ask Washington to investigate whe he termed an attempt of professional welfare workers to obtain control of Ohio's age pension system.

He said he also would ask William Green, president of the A F. of L to call the executive committee's action to the attenion of President Roosevelt.

Whetro said the real reason for the social security board's criticism of the Ohio pension system was an effort by professional welfare workers to control its administration.

He added that these workers had been angry ever since he promoted a law which forbade educational requirements as a condition for taking civil service examinations for pension jobs except for positions for which educational requirements were fixed by statute

Representatives of the social security board, he added had warned that Ohio would lose federal pension grants if the law were passed.

Berrodin expressed belief that payment of pensions on the present scale could be continued with state funds if federal grants were cut off.

MAPS CURB ON PRACTICES TO BREAK STRIKES

LaFollette Draws Legislation to Outlaw Policies Used in 'Little Steel' Strife.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Chairman Robert M. LaFollette, Prog., Wis., of the senate civil liberties committee plans to submit to the next congress a comprehensive legislative program to outlaw strike-breaking practices revealed in his recent investigation of the little steel strike.

A source close to LaFollette said that the program would be presented to congress at the same time that the committee reports on the steel strike are submitted.

Simultaneously, it was learned that the committee may resume hearings on hoter cases of industrial strife in mid-November. It has complaints and requests for investigations of anti-union floggings in Tampa, Fla.; The Salinas, Calif., lettuce pickers strike; suppression of civil liberties in Jersey City, N. J. under Mayor Frank Hague, west coast maritime labor violence, and anti-union activities in New Orleans and in Dallas.

Plans Munitions Curb.

One of the major sections of the legislative program being considered would invoke federal powers of taxation and regulation of the use of the mails to curb traffic in munitions for industrial strife.

The committee has estimated that more than $4,000,000 was spent to break the little steel strike in 1937 Heavy expenditures were made for tear gas, rifles, pistols and shotguns.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1938.

At last reports, Jeffersonian Democracy is being confined to the new nickel.

Public polls are getting too scientific. Some surprises ought to be left for election day.

"Wrong Way" Corrigan can scarcely be regarded as a serious contender for the presidency until he comes out with a California pension plan of some sort.

Our Children and Our Schools.

AS APPROXIMATELY 6,400 children require accommodations in Mansfield public schools the problem of how to provide more adequately for the future, in the matter of school buildings and essential modern educational equipment, becomes more realistic.

While a number of Mansfield's grade school buildings are far from what they should be in sanitation, lighting, etc., it is the children in the junior high school age group (12 to 15) who are most seriously deprived of facilities and opportunities which should be open to every child in Mansfield and vicinity.

John Simpson junior high school, not originally designed for its present use, is badly overcrowded and in terrible condition.

Hedges school building, being temporarily used for two grades of junior high work, is sacrificing its efficiency as a grade school building in order to serve as a make-shift junior high until another building can be provided.

The three years of junior high school are very important ones in the physical and mental development of every normal child—a formative period which may go far in influencing the entire life of the child.

As is now known by everyone in Mansfield and vicinity, plans have been completed for substantial improvement of the public school system, by erection of two new junior high school buildings and extensive remodeling of several grade school buildings.

Carrying through this improvement program will depend on passing the $550,000 school bond issue, which is to be voted on at a special election Tuesday, Sept. 20.

To the $550,000 would be added $450,000 of federal funds, thus financing a million-dollar school improvement project which was endorsed by more than 60 per cent of the voters in Mansfield school district at the August primary election. A 65 per cent majority is required for passage of the bond issue proposal.

Parents, school children, and the public in general, should find some time between now and the special election on Sept 20, to make sure that all voters understand this school improvement program, and are registered—so they will be entitled to vote.

The Pensioners Are Not to Blame.

WHATEVER may be the thought behind the threat of the federal social security board to cut off Ohio's share of federal funds for payment of old age pensions no such action should be taken.

Even if the charges of mishandling of pension funds by this state administration are all sustained, it should be kept in mind that this is merely a part of the malodorous Davey administration as a whole, and that the people of Ohio have set about to correct these conditions after the first of the year when a new governor will take office.

In any way it may be figured, Ohio taxpayers pay into the federal government much more than comes back in the form of old age pension aid, and cutting off of this money would not only work needless hardship on those aged persons who are beneficiaries under the pension system but would serve to unjustifiably penalize taxpayers of this state.

Anything that can be immediately corrected in the alleged inefficient operation of Ohio's pension system should be insisted upon by the social security board, but there should be no such drastic action as even temporarily withdrawing federal participation in paying old age pensions.

Horn Imitates Hurt Dog's Yelp.

APPARENTLY intended to cater to an imbecilic sense of humor, an automobile horn that imitates the yelping of an injured dog was demonstrated in Mansfield yesterday by an out-of-state salesman.

Plainly audible for a block or more, the plaintive yowling of a hurt dog was convincingly imitated by the sound device under the car's hood.

First thought was of pity for a dog that had been hit by an automobile. Then came realization that the sound came from a car and that the whole thing was intended as a good joke."

"You can have lots of fun with it," explained the salesman, to whose car it was attached, and who was an expert in reproducing the sounds made by a suffering dog.

Yes, unfortunately, there are some people who could "have lots of fun" with such a device. There are even a few who will swerve their car so as to strike a dog.

For the benefit of those who may not already know, the Mansfield traffic code provides that no person shall use a signal device on an automobile "except when necessary to give warning."

Another city ordinance provides that "It shall be unlawful for any person to disturb the peace and good order of this city by unusual and unnecessary noise . . . "—which seems to forestall any attempt to "have lots of fun" with such an atrocity as the "yelping dog" sound device. At least let it be hoped so.

Brittania's Show.

GREAT BRITAIN made a neat move in sending her home fleet to the North sea for annual maneuvers. Or, as the admiralty politely expressed it, for the "autumn cruise." That will create a diversion for the Nazis, and give some wholesome annoyance to Hitler, who has just given a big naval show himself in those waters for the special benefit of Regent Horthy of Hungary.

There is this difference, too. The German fleet totals 100,000 tons. The British fleet totals 200,000 tons. And Britain has a lot of other effective warships scattered about the world. The German units may be more effective ton for ton, but to all appearances Britannia still rules the waves.

Watching Trends

While Preston Grover is on vacation, persons prominent in the official and political life of the nation and in journalism are conducting this column. Today's guest column is written

By DR. L. S. ROWE
Director General of the Pan American Union.

WASHINGTON—Peace in the western hemisphere is the business of every government in North and South America.

That principle was confirmed a few weeks ago when Bolivia and Paraguay decided to submit their Chaco war to arbitration, after a century of intermittent fighting.

Thus the conference method of settling international disputes triumphed again on this side of the Atlantic. Even now the family of American governments is preparing for another in the long line of Pan American conferences, this one to be held in Lima, Peru, early in December.

A glance at the record helps explain this comparative quiet on the American front despite the war clatter elsewhere in the world. It reads almost like "A Century of Progress."

A little more than a century ago, in 1826, Simon Bolivar, the Great Liberator, called a conference of nations which assembled in Panama. Although U. S. delegates arrived after the meeting adjourned, several Latin American representatives got together in time for a little friendly discussion.

By 1889 the First Pan American Conference met in Washington, D. C. It went so far as to establish a commercial bureau to foster trade relations between the American republics.

* * *

Covers Many Fields.

SINCE that meeting half a century ago seven Pan American conferences have dealt with an increasing variety of subjects like commerce and finance; communications and transportation; intellectual and cultural relations; public health and social welfare; arbitration, conciliation, and codification of international law—to name a few.

Most important was the Buenos Aires gathering in December, 1936, to consider ways of strengthening the peace machinery. Out of it grew the principle of joint responsibility of ALL American governments for the maintenance of peace in the western hemisphere.

With these international conclaves of American governments has grown the Pan American Union, as a permanent headquarters for inter-American affairs.

From its start as a commercial bureau it has broadened its activities to keep up with international developments until it now handles the agendas of the general Pan American conferences and of some of the special gatherings.

* * *

For Peace Association.

ALREADY the governing board of the Union has drafted the program for the coming Peru conference, after consultation with the governments which will attend.

The program will cover economic questions, the political and civil rights of women, organization of peace, international law, intellectual co-operation and moral disarmament.

Also likely to attract attention is the proposal of the governments of Colombia and the Dominican Republic for the creation of an association of American nations with increased power to preserve the peace of the western hemisphere.

One of the criticisms leveled at the conferences and at the Pan American Union itself is the lack of enforcement weapons like the sanctions which can be invoked by the League of Nations.

The Union of course is largely an administrative body without political functions or opinions. The conferences, on the other hand, have shown that they can settle disputes without the threat of force.

DAILY BIBLE THOUGHT

Ask and ye shall receive, that your joy may be full.—John 16:24.

THROWING SOME LIGHT ON THE SUBJECT!

The Human Side of the News

—By EDWIN C. HILL

UNDER our system of law an attorney is absolutely free to take either side of a legal issue or to defend any accused person, no matter how guilty he may appear to be or how flagrantly anti-social his supposed conduct. The lawyer suffers no criticism.

Is this, or should it be, true in the court of public opinion—at times, a higher tribunal than the law court? To say that it is, is to give to paid propagandists standing and immunity comparable to the lawyer's professional privilege. Perhaps this standing should be given them. "Paid propagandist" is a loose package of varied contents of which the label is entirely inadequate.

A clergyman is a paid propagandist, drawing a salary to propagandize his faith; so is the writer of advertising copy, the salesman building good will for his product, any paid evangel of an idea or a commodity, regardless of its social derivatives or uses for good or evil.

But, in the blizzard of propaganda now raging through the world, there is great confusion and but little objective thinking regarding it. This writer recently has observed certain facts and conditions in this field which he thinks are pertinent to this country's orientation in world affairs at a critical moment. The postman rings not twice but many times a day, bringing a load of clamorous or insidious press-agent flimsy or pamphlets which I believe deserve a judicious examination in some more authoritative forum than this.

The assault on American institutions is being made by Americans who are being highly paid for this service to alien interests. I want to put this temperately, and if this seems too blunt an assertion, I intend it merely as a succinct statement of what is happening. There are scores of young Americans, educated at the public expense at American universities, who are making fat livings assailing our form of government and extolling various foreign brands of autocracy. That, to this writer, is the nub of the whole business—Americans paid to undermine America.

* * *

NOT only do they thus attack our institutions, but they hire out to further this or that foreign cause which is none of our business. Naturally, they are journeymen who work on either side or both sides. I have at hand an expensively printed brochure setting forth the noble and disinterested efforts of Japan to save China from its rapacious warlords.

It is clever and plausible, issued under the aegis of one of those "institutes" which have become in several instances the press-agents' conventional smoke-screen. But I happen to know that the "institute" is a smart young former newspaperman, educated at a mid-western state university, who has built up a publicity bureau which pays him a handsome income. I also happen to know that a year ago he was serving China as diligently and cleverly as he serves Japan today.

We have a "net container" law for food and drugs. On the package, the buyer finds the name and address of the manufacturer and information as to the weight, volume and character of the contents. Why not something like this for the propagandists:

"This pamphlet was written by Joe Bush, of such and such an address. He is employed by the Japanese government to help convince Americans that Japan is right and China is wrong. All expenses, in addition to the writer's salary, including printing and circulation, were paid for by the Japanese War Office."

Again alluding to the right of the lawyers to defend any individual or legal cause, he is, in fact, subject to just such a "net container" law. The judge, the jury, the public know that he is contending not for some exalted principle, but for a fee. That is as it should be, and it works. It makes a wide-open free-for-all in the courts, and all concerned may judge the issue on its merits, without regard to dubious origins and inducements. And furthermore, the lawyers earn this right to take either side by maintaining a Bar Association which enforces ethical standards. Which the propagandists do not.

* * *

THE human drama and contention of the courtroom is close to our daily life, our concepts of right and wrong, our knowledge of typical characters and issues involved. How infinitely more elusive and confusing are the salient facts of international alignments, of contending philosophies of government, of the vast welter of economic and political confusion which bedevils the world! Therefore, it becomes imperative that we know just who is talking, writing, printing and publishing, and whether they are paid and by whom.

One hesitates to suggest a new law—we have too many laws already. This is just one of those "something ought to be done about it" pieces, in the hope that it may start some informed and temperate discussion of this subject. In the meantime there is something we all can do. We can look a gift pamphlet in the mouth, the tonsils, the epiglottis and the adenoids.

Timely Editorial

The Sharing Fallacy.

The world carries a large percentage of natural born dead beats whose sole object is to get a living for nothing. They have no ambition to work, and they have no respect for the individual who does work. Furthermore they hold in contempt the very persons through whose generosity they are enabled to live.

The biography of Jack London which has been running in the Saturday Evennig Post very clearly shows that idealism does not work out very satisfactorily. London was a "practical" Socialist, that is one who tried to practice the theories he preached. He withheld a hand from no man who came to him. He threw open his home and made his table available to every tramp, bum and convict who came along.

He was a sucker for the outstretched hand, and the fact that money was rolling in to his pockets by the tens of thousands of dollars made him reckless. When the time came that he needed funds, when his own income was not sufficient for his needs, he found the fawning fair weather friends coldly absent and unresponsive. He learned too late the bitter lesson of the easy mark.—Ohio State Journal.

Health Advice

Child's Vision May Be Defective.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IN PREPARING a child for the opening of school, we have emphasized in previous articles the importance of protection against contagious diseases.

But, of course, the conscientious parents will think of many other things in connection with the physical welfare of the child that will need to be considered when it is faced with the extra responsibilities and burdens of school life.

The eyes and the ears will be put under strain in school such as they never had in the irresponsible days of early childhood.

Pope wrote, "Explore the thought, explain the asking eye," and this might well be a motto for teachers. They must think of how much the child sees if they are to explain his behavior. One of the teacher members of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness learned that the department of psychology of one of our state universities was giving Intelligence Quotient tests to a group of school children. He found that they had not taken any steps to investigate the vision of the children, and asked that he might do so. He found that of 300 children under investigation, 25 had vision sufficiently defective to see inaccurately the material used in the I. Q. tests. All 25 had been given low I. Q. ratings, as might be expected.

Poor Vision Limits Work.

Poor vision may limit excellency in school work in many ways. Wherever possible, parents should be assured by their oculist that the child's vision is efficient before starting school work. While school hygiene workers do attempt to make an examination of the scholars' eyes, this is often done in a slipshod manner and is based entirely on whether the child can read 20-20 on a Luellen chart. Tests made under consistent standards of lighting are not attempted.

I understood there is being constructed in one of our national history museums a hall of animal behavior where the public may see how the world looks to different animals. For instance, a dog having no color discrimination, sees everything as a pale gray.

We should think of the school child in this way, and project ourselves into his consciousness. Then we may be able to understand some of his deficiencies as a scholar.

As Others See It

A Farmer's Diary

The Cricket.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

AS I SIT in my armchair and listen, the pleasant chirp of crickets comes from many directions. Outside the door, along the well curb, in crotches of the shade trees, beneath the porch, and in the grassy lawn, their fiddled music rings in splendid chorus.

The mechanism with which the cricket makes this sound is intricate. He is a fiddler with a bow of nearly 150 triangular shaped teeth upon his wing. With this he touches the ribs of the opposite wing case, and literally sets four drums in motion at the same time.

How few times, except in cold, harsh winter, the cheerful note of the cricket is not heard! All through the late spring evenings this friendly little insect makes his music. When hottest summer days arrive, and birds seek shelter in the shade of rocks and trees and cease their singing, the cricket's voice is heard among the meadow grass, along the hedges, or in the summer fallow.

Even after heavy frost, with the aid of his close kin, the katydid, he makes the forest ring . . . an orchestration that only subtle nature can produce.

Even in bleak December, on a southern hillside, with Indian summer long past, I have heard the muffled, feeble tones of the hardy cricket, beneath some surface stones . . . a swan song, perhaps, but I still admired the waning spark of life, when all about was death and decay.

No wonder the Greek youth in ages past would make small cages for these insects, and hang them in the windows, or grant protection by the ancient fireplace for a cheerful cricket, to give their hearth an atmosphere of peace and comfort.

Listen, World!

We Forget We Began With a Prayer.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THEY'RE nursing a powerful headache in Texas these days . . . trying to figure what the O'Daniel man is all about, trying to explain how any mortal could get the governorship vote, nowadays, with no platform but the Ten Commandments.

"It jess don't make sense!" moan the Inside Boys. And from the Inner Sanctums of the other 47 States come similar sounds of consternation. Getting elected, practically on nothing but a prayer—phooey, what's the real dope? Whatcha s'pose this fella's really got up his sleeve? "The power of Faith"—for Pete's sake, what kinda politics is that? Religious fanaticism, that's what it is! And where's that going to end?

Well, judging by all our national precedent, it should end mighty fine. For there is one thing which smart politicians forget. Namely—

AMERICA WAS STARTED WITH PRAYER!

Psalm-singing salesmen are not a novelty in America—nor are praying voters an unique phenomena. Such men have always been here, and their "stuff" has always worked. And personally I'm thanking Heaven that a W. Lee O'Daniel has arisen to remind us of the fact.

I've grown very weary, lately, of hearing this constant emphasis on our national greed and corruption, waste and depravity. I hotly resent the general notion that we're a land of gangsters, crooks, vice syndicates, hoodlums, neurotics and millionaire morons. I burn with shame for those who act as if Prayer were a perilous and unprecedented innovation in the U. S. A., and Faith a new kind of shell game.

There are bad eggs amongst us, yes. But we are, for the most part, a clean people, an honest people, a hard-working, self-respecting, law-abiding people. We may not go to church as often as our Plymouth fathers did but our faith in God and our desire for decency is as genuine and sincere. We may let ourselves be duped for a while . . . defiled for a while . . . but inevitably the day comes when—WE RISE AND FIGHT! And back of that fight there is not only money and aroused self-esteem—THERE IS THE FAITH WHICH STARTED AMERICA THAT DAY ON "A ROCK-BOUND SHORE." A fact which all gentlemen who desire to seize the reins of government, should ponder long and well.

As for "religious fanaticism"—well, why not? No great or brave or beautiful thing was ever done without fanaticism. Nations are not born and maintained by cold, calculating men. They are created by men who burn . . . who dream and weep and dare and die, if need be. It was Fanaticism which launched the Mayflower. It was Fanaticism which starved at Valley Forge and swept its skull-marked, Covered Wagon trail across a wilderness . . . and braved a nightmare death to conquer Yellow Jack. It is Fanaticism, today, which is battling against cancer and child labor, sweat shops and starvation wages.

It was Fanaticism, if you wish, that swept W. Lee O'Daniel into power. I'm glad it did! Glad that something has happened to remind us of our clean, brave, simple beginning . . . and of the tremendous power of that Faith which is our heritage. We were forgetting that beginning. We were forgetting that power. We were beginning to think of life in terms of money and pull and hoss-trading.

IT WAS TIME WE ROSE AND STRUTTED OUR STUFF . . . TIME WE PROVED TO OURSELVES AND THE WORLD THAT ONE SIMPLE WORKER'S FIGHTING FAITH PACKS MORE DYNAMITE THAN ALL THE BIG BOSSES' DOPE SHEETS AND THE FIXERS' "INSIDE TIPS!"

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The startling frankness of wax models in show windows nowadays is one very good reason why New York in particular and the universe in general is a more pleasant place to gaze upon. They have grown out of the chestless state that characterized them before the war. They have arrived. And certainly the result is gratifying.

I am not in a position to state authoritatively that the female form today is lovelier than it was 25 or 30 years ago, for at that time I was rather young and my interests ran largely to fire engines. But I can tell you that the mannequins of today are a far cry from their sisters of yesteryear who were frequently headless and always shapeless, dreary, and appalling.

* * *

I REMEMBER once being badly frightened by a headless Amazon who toppled forward in her show case just as I was passing with my nurse, and the experience was so disconcerting that thereafter my nurse was instructed not to parade me by the shopping centers on our afternoon strolls.

I often think of that monstrosity as I pass the brilliantly lit windows on Fifth avenue and look upon the apparitions of feminine loveliness that are there now. They are so dainty. Their noses are always so impudent. They are so slim and so divinely proportioned. One might almost believe them real, for they are perfect from the sweep of their eyelashes to the tips of their tinted nails.

If one were a penniless art student and had not the wherewithal to attend life classes one could do a lot worse for oneself than to frequent the windows of the fashion centers in New York. For there the human form is epitomized. The only danger here would be in the mannequins themselves, for they have been proportioned so perfectly that a sensitive artist might be disillusioned when he realizes how easily man surpasses nature in the modeling of eyes, ears, nose and throat.

* * *

THERE was once a tragic incident which involved a night watchman and a mannequin. He used to see her on his rounds every night, and he fell in love with her. But of course she was only wax. But the man who fashioned her must have been a realist. Blue were her eyes, and her hair was spun gold. She seemed about to say something but the words never passed her half-parted, provocative lips.

Always the night watchman removed his hat in her presence. He began to frequent her part of the building more and more. She was in a great show window opening on Fifth avenue, and when passersby would linger too long a quick jealousy would manifest itself in the watchman, and he would irritably order them away.

That she would surely speak to him some night became a certainty in his brain, and he began rehearsing little speeches that he would make to her when that time came. He devised sweet names to call her. He began to take more interest in his personal appearance.

One night the lady of his dreams toppled over and broke her swan-like neck.

They found him next morning, cowering in the basement, a gibbering idiot.

Maybe those shapeless, pre-war caricatures weren't such a bad idea after all.

Everyday Poems

Shared Afternoon.

We shared but this, one afternoon,
So brief a time, and yet
So much we spoke that all our lives
This we will not forget.

One afternoon, just one, we shared.
How much the tongue can tell
In that small space, until that day
I never knew so well.

One afternoon, we shared, just one,
And then went each his way—
But things of which we spoke will hold
Each one to his last day.

Now's Time to Get Home Set For Winter

It's not a pleasant thought for most home owners, but chilly days are just around the corner, and fuel and heating appliance dealers point out that now is the time to prepare the home for fall and winter.

Air conditioning and automatic controlled furnaces are features of the new season's heating plans Mansfield dealers are emphasizing the economy and convenience that modern equipment offers in making the home more comfortable in cold weather

In times of smaller incomes and pinched budgets it is doubly important that the most be obtained from fuel and that the best fuel be purchased for the least money, dealers point out

They are prepared to show the home-owner how he can save money and at the same time modernize the heating system in his home

They will give free information on how an conditioning appliances may be added to heating equipment now in service Service men are ready to inspect heating and hot water equipment and make suggestions for repair or replacement

Now's Time To Make Repairs.

Dealers point out that a defective furnace or boiler can be checked before winter and repaired at small cost to save the inconvenience of necessary repairs during freezing weather

New types of fuel, designed to keep the basement cleaner and heat the home for less money have been introduced, and dealers in the city are ready to furnish complete information about them on request

High efficiency boilers are available for use with stokers, oil burners and gas Equipped with labor saving devices and economy features the modern boilers reduce the burdens of winter affording more comfort with less effort and expense

Figures compiled by the National Housing administration show that less than half of the 30,000,000 homes in the United States have central heating plants The rest are heated by stoves or oil burners

The lack of modern equipment gives the dealers in modern appliances a wide field in which to work and to suggest improvements Mansfield dealers are ready to do their share toward making homes better places to live in winter.

Conditioning of Air Grows

Air conditioning in winter as well as summer is becoming an important item in the modern home building, and the equipment shown above indicates that the unit can be compact and attractive Illustrated here is a boiler covered with a steel jacket which may be painted to match other furnishings The air conditioning unit sprays one pound of water into the air an hour making the home more healthful in winter months The air conditioner operates independently of the heating plant and supplies cleaned, humidified air at a cost equivalent to operation of a 60-watt lamp

Moritz Offers Widely Known Brands of Coal

The days of buying just any coal for any purpose are over, and purchasers are turning to fuel that gives the most satisfaction for the least cost and with the smallest amount of waste, the Frank Moritz Coal company contends

The Moritz company located at 25 Orange street is dealer in three widely known brands of coal which supply any need for home heating and will help to lift the burden of coal buying this fall Moritz says

'King Kona' for stokers and "Hi Lo' and "Cinderella" coals for stoves and furnaces will take the gamble out of fuel buying and go a long way toward keeping the home cleaner, according to Moritz

They leave no clinkers, little ash and burn with an intensity that produces lasting heat, and come in lumps of varying size for use in all types of heating plants

Slogan's Still 'Never a Chill With a Schill'

For more than 50 years the slogan "Never a Chill With a Schill' has been a byword in heating plants—and for more than 50 years the Schill manufacturing company at Crestline has been turning out the Schill Furnace'

For 25 years the firm has made its own installations with a staff of trained employes skilled in furnace manufacture and maintenance

In recent years a large percentage of the company s business has been installing air conditioning equipment made in its own plant

Because of the nearness of the factory it is possible to meet any emergency with needed equipment with a minimum amount of delay and installation can be made with only short notice O D Steil, Richland county factory representative said

Electricity, Coal or Wood Can Be Used In This Range

With the rapid spread of government-fostered rural electrification a mushroom new market for electrical appliances of all kinds has sprung up among which are new cooking range models especially suited to the needs of many rural residents

Outstanding among the models is the newly created Electra, manufactured by the Kalamazoo Stove and Furnace company This new product is a combination range which permits cooking either with electricity or with a coal or wood fire.

It is really two ranges in one There is a complete coal side with firebox grates shaking device ash pit, and a four-place cooking top complete with multiple and non-scorch lids, and built-in griddle plates This oven is the central feature of the range being convertible in half a minute or less into an electrically heated oven or broiler

When electricity is used there is an automatic regulator that [illegible] oven at the temperature for which it is set, turning the [illegible] on and off as needed without any attention from the housewife The range has four electrical units one high speed one slow, and two medium

The Electra is completely porcelain enameled and is made in the light colors which are preferred today, sheer white and pale cream ivory The Kalamazoo Stove and Furnace company's Mansfield store is located at 136 Park avenue west

Points Out How Janitrol Ends Furnace Labors

Winter time is home time—and your heating plant determines whether you have happy winter days of cheer and comfort, officials of the Ohio Fuel Gas company contend.

They advocate the elimination of all furnace labors with the installation of a Janitrol "GC" gravity heater that provides clean, warm, humidified air throughout every room under automatic control.

With the Janitrol "GC" heater you need only light the pilot, set the thermostat and as far as heat is concerned, you need not go near the basement for the rest of the winter.

When you heat with a Janitrol "GC" gas heater your gas bill is the only heating cost, they contend.

The Janitrol heater produces no dust or dirt, lowers the cleaning costs and furnace repairs, and fuel storage space. It is noiseless when installed, and because it has so few moving parts, it does not become noisy with years of use.

The new Janitrol "GC" gravity heater is now on display at the Ohio Fuel Gas company, 66 Park avenue west.

Basement Fast Becoming Favorite Recreation Room

Due to more modern heating methods, the basement under the average home is becoming a recreation center rather than a storage room for fuel and all the odds and ends about the house, according to officials of the Ohio Fuel Gas company.

Home builders are realizing more every day the value of a basement for a hobby and play room, and through slight changes in the heating system are sometimes able to utilize most of the basement space for pleasure, Gas company officials pointed out.

When the hot air furnace is in good condition, a gas conversion burner may be installed at comparatively small cost, eliminating the necessity for a basement compartment for coal or coke.

The installation provides an automatic heat control system, and with the addition of a humidifier the home can be air conditioned at little cost. The air conditioning feature is necessary if the deep basement is to be made pleasant and livable, home designers assert.

Gas-fueled furnaces not only are space-saving, but they eliminate the dust and dirt usually found in basements and bring quicker results with less attention, the Gas company's heating authorities say.

Offers Complete Line of Fireplace Accessories

For those people who have fireplaces in their homes and those who are now building new homes with fireplaces, a complete line of fireplace accessories can be found at the Martin Hardware company, 11 North Main street.

Martin's selection includes andirons, fireplace sets to match, and fireplace screens. Screens can be found in a wide variety of styles and sizes, including gleaming brass, attractive bronze, and distinctive antique effects.

The screens will harmonize with every decorative color scheme planned for the home, and add beauty and charm to this feature of the living room.

Explains How Gasoline Auto Heater Operates

J. L. Metcalf, manager of Met's Auto Supply explains the operation of the new Stewart-Warner gasoline heater for automobiles.

"First," says Metcalf, "why shouldn't gasoline make perfect heat? Combustion takes place in a small, sealed vacuum metal chamber at the back of the heater. Gasoline cannot explode in a partial vacuum, it can only burn steadily without leakage of fumes."

"Further, since the system operates under less than atmospheric pressure, any leak that might occur would result in the air rushing inward, not fumes passing outward. If the leak were a large one, it would destroy the partial vacuum inside the heater and prevent the flow of gasoline and the heater flame would automatically go out."

The Stewart-Warner South Wind heater manufactures its own heat quickly—independent of engine temperature or speed and is easily installed.

The modern streamlined case does not interfere with leg room and is finished to harmonize with the interior of the modern car.

Urges Study of Heating to Get Most From Fuel

Study your heating problems if you want to get the most from fuel for the least money, advises Simon Small, manager of Simon Small and Sons company, dealers in Carbon Splint coal.

To help the purchaser of the winter's fuel supply to buy with more knowledge of what he's getting, Small is offering a booklet on heating problems which may be obtained free of charge at the firm's offices on the fourth floor of the Walpark building.

"We all think we know how to get the most out of our winter's coal supply, but to put our knowledge to a test would prove we make a lot of costly mistakes," Small said.

Carbon Splint coal, he pointed out, is firm in structure and does not crumble in the fuel bin; it gives more lasting heat with low ash content and no clinkers, and it comes in convenient sizes for any type of heating appliance.

Small recommends it for hot air furnaces, hot water and steam boilers, heating stoves and grates.

Jim Brown Store Enlarges Stove Department

Climaxing a year of successful business in Mansfield, the Jim Brown store has now enlarged its stove department.

Featured in this department are stoves, ranges and heaters of every size, price and type. Not only is the store showing the products displayed last year, but it has added a number of new lines.

Named Dealer For Freeman Stokers, Fox Furnaces

Henry R. Pataky has been appointed dealer for this district for the Freeman Automatic coal stoker and Fox Sunbeam furnaces and air conditioning units.

Pataky's years of experience in heating and air conditioning contributed largely to this appointment, the announcement said.

Pataky gives his personal attention to furnace inspection at no cost or obligation to the owner.

Specializing in furnace cleaning and repairing on all makes of furnaces has increased the volume of this type of work two-fold, Pataky says. Frank P. Sitler is in charge of the sales and service department.

The Freeman Automatic coal stoker and Fox Sunbeam furnace may be seen at the display rooms of the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing company, 131 North Diamond street. For appointment or demonstration, Pataky may be reached by calling Spring 2632.

Ward's Claim Big Saving In Fuel With New Stoker

A modern convenience for the home that will actually pay for itself while in use is in the new Ward coal stoker, Joseph Blahnick, manager of the Montgomery, Ward and company, Mansfield store points out.

The new Ward stoker can be paid from savings in the winter fuel bills, Mr. Blahnick claims, because the stoker uses less fuel, burns all the coal and wastes none of the smoke and soot.

He contends that actual experiences of Ward stoker owners have proven that a 30 per cent savings can be affected in the winter's coal bill—and that savings alone will pay for a new stoker in a few years.

"In addition to fuel economy, Ward stokers offer cleaner homes with soot and smoke almost eliminated", Mr. Blahnick says. "Cleaning and decorating bills inside and out are cut to a minimum. There is no hand firing, no ashes, and no drafts to bother with".

The Ward stoker can now be purchased on the new FHA plan.

Sears Puts Two New Furnaces On Market

A Hercules stoker and the new Indestructo furnace with a 20-year guarantee are being placed on the market this fall by the Sears, Roebuck & company to help solve winter heating problems

The new Indestructo furnace is built of Sears' exclusive Indestructo metal, and with increased heating surface and heating capacity The metal is used for feed section, firepot and grates, the most vital parts, and those which must stand the greatest heat

Sears' new Hercules stoker offers a savings up to 50 per cent on fuel. The improved Hercules assures peak heating efficiency, feeds coal from underneath the fire, and supplies correct amount of air for proper combustion.

A sensitive room thermostat regulates burning interval and maintains uniform room temperatures, and an automatic fire pilot control prevents the fire from going out. The Hercules is available in sizes for all heating plants.

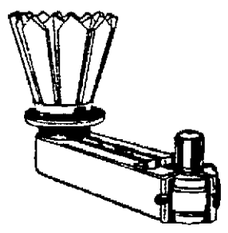
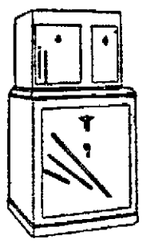
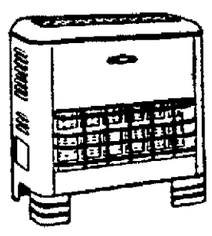
You're Paying for Gas Heat Without Enjoying Its Advantages



This Janitrol gas-fired unit fits into your present furnace or boiler to make it an automatic gas heating plant.



If buying a new furnace this Janitrol air-conditioning unit is recommended. Heats, cleans, circulates, humidifies.



For homes too small for a central heating plant, a Moore's gas-fired circulating heater best fits your requirements.

YOU, your neighbors — in fact, all of us — like to think we are buying full value for each dollar of the family budget. Once in a while there is a rude awakening when we discover that something we thought was costing less is really costing considerably more. In this class are the thousands of families who have been skimping along with old-fashioned heating methods and are now finding out that they've been paying for modern gas heat without enjoying its advantages.

People are discovering two mighty important facts: (1) the hidden costs incidental to the use of old-fashioned fuel make it cost a whole lot more than they thought and (2) automatic gas heat costs much less than most people think. Balancing these facts, clean gas heat of even temperature really costs less than out-moded heating methods. A phone call to The Gas Company will bring a heating engineer to your home, without any obligation. He will inspect your heating plant and measure the heating requirements of your residence. From this he can tell you with surprising accuracy the cost of heating your home with gas. Why not call him at once?

EISAMAN NAMED SCHOOL OFFICER

Applicant Who Headed Civil Service List Chosen for Attendance Post.

John H. Eisaman, 5 Summit court, was appointed attendance officer for Mansfield schools last night by the board of education.

Eisaman, who was at the head of a list of three applicants certified by the Mansfield civil service commission, was named unanimously after the applicants had been interviewed at the board meeting.

His appointment fills the vacancy caused by the death last spring of A. H. Wood, who has been attendance officer for a number of years. The new officer began his duties today.

Sixty persons had applied to the civil service commission for the job. The three who were certified were Eisaman, with a grade of 86 per cent; Bernard C. Park, 84 per cent, and Wilbur Wierman, 83 per cent.

A former auditor for the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, Eisaman is 43 years old and the father of two boys. He had been unemployed in recent weeks.

The board set the attendance officer's salary at $1,800 a year, with an additional $20 per month for nine months for traveling expenses.

Public Works Head Refuses Comment on Millersburg Ouster.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — State Public Works Director Carl Wahl, of Defiance, today promised that a new superintendent of the statehouse would be appointed in the "near future" but he refused to give any reason for ousting J. L. Kennedy, of Millersburg, from the job.

Kennedy was abruptly fired from the $3,000 a year job last Friday.

Predict Davey Ready to War on Roosevelt Policies

FRIENDS TERM PENSION BLAST 'OPENING GUN'

Presidential Ambitions, Seat in U. S. Senate Viewed as Governor's Hopes.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—That Gov. Martin L. Davey would remain a major Ohio Democratic political force became increasingly apparent today.

The enigmatic question, however, was: How would this force—a sparkling personality blended with a political astuteness that has been respected by his opponents—be harnessed and against whom would it be directed?

Close associates and state capital observers interpreted Governor Davey's "defy" to the federal social security board this week as a clear hint that he might declare an outspoken war on the administration policies of President Roosevelt.

Won't Quit Politics.

There was only speculation, though, as to the goal of any such attacks. Some of his friends say he has presidential ambitions; others assert he would like a place in the United States senate.

When he leaves the governor's office next January, after two terms, Davey has indicated clearly he would not quit politics. For 26 years—since he became mayor of his home town of Kent at the age of 28—the tree surgeon-politician has been a public figure.

As the state chief executive, Davey has tangled on several occasions with individual New Deal leaders. This week he blasted flatly at New Deal philosophies in general.

He viewed "the increasing and alarming centralization of power in federal agencies, by the arbitrary and dictatorial use of vast sums of money drawn from every state in the union," as the "essence of tyranny."

Davey incorporated his "state's rights" attitude in a letter "daring" the social security board to suspend federal allowances for Ohio's 110,000 old age pensioners. The board had threatened to cut off the allocations because of alleged maladministration in the Ohio pension system.

School Children Open Observance of Battle of Erie

SANDUSKY—(AP)—School children will travel to the Commodore Perry memorial at Put-In-Bay tomorrow to open a three-day observance of the 125th anniversary of the battle of Lake Erie.

Congressman Dow W. Harter of Akron, chairman of the Commodore Perry memorial and peace celebration commission, invited Ohioans to join in the celebration.

Brig. Gen. W. K. Naylor, commander of the Tenth Brigade, U. S. Army, and Congressman-At-Large John McSweeney of Wooster, a member of the commission, will speak at Put-In-Bay Friday afternoon. A patriotic songfest will be conducted here in the evening, with a parade and boat display.

Building Boom Ahead for U. S., Straus Says

Up and Down THE STREET

Within the next few days, a night-blooming cereus will blossom forth in all its glory at the H. L. Walters home, 173 Bentley avenue. The buds are getting ready now, and it won't be long before they open up. The cereus blooms no oftener than once a year, and blossoms open only at night, staying open for about five hours. Sometimes they bloom only one night, sometimes more. Some cereus plants blossom annually, as the Walters' plant does. Others blossom as infrequently as once in two, three or even seven years.

That story in yesterday's paper about using music to improve factory workers' efficiency and morale, suggested by an eastern psychologist, isn't new to James M Hill, president of Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company. Hill said today he wasn't planning to install a swing band at the plant—at least, not yet—but as long as 20 years ago had the thought that in mill operations requiring cooperation, timing and rhythm that music could be used to step up operations. He didn't do anything with the idea though he thinks it's a pretty fair one, at that.

Mrs. George Mentzer, Lexington, is still hopeful of finding her antique cake plate which was stolen—with the cake—from the grange exhibit at the Richland County fair. A number of items were taken, all of them things to eat, and among them were two cakes on old-fashioned glass plates. One of them was found later, discarded by the thief. There is a possibility that the person who took Mrs. Mentzer's cake, put the plate down somewhere without breaking it and that someone my have found it. It was one of those old round glass plates on a standard. Mrs. Mentzer may be reached at 6071 Lexington or by writing her.

MAPS SECURITY ACT REVISIONS

Board Prepares Report for Congress; Studies Plans to Expand Program.

WASHINGTON—The social security board disclosed today it is preparing for congress a detailed report on the feasibility of dozens of proposed changes in the security act.

President Roosevelt asked last April for a study of methods of liberalizing and extending the old-age benefit system.

The social security advisory council subsequently asked the board to investigate the possibility of extending the old-age insurance benefits to about 16,000,000 domestic servants, farm hands and self-employed persons now excluded from the act.

The studies will touch on these additional proposals, a spokesman for the board said:

1. Starting payment of old-age benefits before Jan. 1, 1942, the date now fixed by law.

2. Payment of larger benefits than now provided for persons retiring during the earlier years of the program.

3. Distribution of benefits to aged wives and widows and young children of insured persons who die before reaching retirement age.

4. A change in the present method of investing the accumulating security taxes in a reserve fund before old-age annuities begin.

5. Downward revision of the individual and employer tax rates until the program reaches the peak of its operation in four or five years.

1,500 ATTEND DEDICATION OF $400,000 BUCYRUS UNDERPASS

BUCYRUS — City, state and county officials yesterday helped Bucyrus dedicate its $400,000 underpass on the Lincoln highway before a crowd of 1,500.

Atty. William C. Beer, principal speaker at the dedication dinner which followed the laying of the last brick praised Bucyrus residents and county and state officials for their cooperation in building the triple structure that eliminates four railway grade crossings.

Before the throng that gathered at the east end of the underpass, T. R. Barnes of Mansfield, styled by F. L. Hopley of Bucyrus, state consul for the Lincoln highway association as the dean of Ohio Lincoln highway consuls, laid the last gold-plated brick in the center of the roadway.

Mrs. Mildred Jaster, wife of State Highway Director John J. Jaster, clipped the red, white and blue ribbon across the highway and the first of 6,000 automobiles which travel the highway every 24 hours rolled through the underpass.

"The credit for the construction of this improvement in Bucyrus can be in a large measure attributed to the activities of the Lincoln Highway association, city officials, the state highway department and the aid furnished by the federal government," Beer told a group of more than 200 gathered at the dinner at the Elks club.

"The thanks of Bucyrus and all those who pass through Bucyrus over this route are due the city administration of Bucyrus, county officials, the state highway department and the Lincoln Highway association in securing the aid extended by the federal government that has brought about this magnificent structure that has added to the protection of the motoring public," Beer added.

Elmer Hilde of the grade elimination division of the state highway department formally presented the structure to Mayor George Dustman.

Among those attending the dinner were Mayor C. M. Hunter of Mansfield who made a brief talk, Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist and Paul W. Williams, secretary-manager of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce.

Arrangements for the dedication ceremonies were in charge of Hopley as general chairman.

SUMMONS 14

Prosecutor Opens Inquiry Into Gas Company Gifts.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Prosecutor J. Ralph Bartlett today summoned 14 witnesses and the records of the Ohio Fuel Gas company before the grand jury which opens an investigation tomorrow into transactions between two public utilities commission engineers and the gas company.

The engineers are Louis F. Dabe, head of the gas and electric division, accused of accepting a gas range from the company, and O. F. Foster, charged with accepting a gas refrigerator.

Both men have denied they accepted gifts in a hearing before the comission and declared they paid for the merchandise. The commission refused to act but Prosecutor Bartlett said he had decided to bring the case to the attention of the grand jury.

FORECASTS NEW RECORD IN HOME BUILDING WORK

Housing Administrator Sees Private, Federal Programs Speed Up Activity.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Unparalleled interest in the government's slum-clearance and private construction programs will initiate one of the biggest building booms in the history of the nation, according to Nathan Straus, U. S. housing authority administrator.

Straus voiced his predictions today as he threw his organization into high gear and the federal housing administration reported new records in private home construction.

He denied reports that President Roosevelt and some members of the cabinet were dissatisfied with the progress of the slum-clearance and low-cost housing programs, vital parts of the recovery drive.

Passes 200 Millions.

Straus said the program has passed the $200,000,000 mark and that contracts bring the total of USHA loans to local housing authorities up to $202,807,000 for 43 cities. In addition to the loans, the USHA has earmarked $316,466,000 for many additional cities, making a total of $519,273,000 in commitments for 129 cities participating in the $800,000,000 program.

Loan contracts totaling $48,279,000 were approved yesterday to defray 90 per cent of the $53,662,000 estimated cost of 30 additional projects in 18 cities.

Straus based his prediction for a building boom on the results of his tour of the principal cities. He said he found an unusual interest in the government's programs, stimulated by what he termed a younger generation devoted to the liberal policies of the administration.

"It is safe to say that America today is on the eve of one of its greatest booms in home building construction, one aspect of which most certainly will be the destruction of city slums and the rehousing of those families now living in substandard dwellings," Straus said.

The federal housing administration reported that the volume of home financing business during August reached a new monthly peak. Small home mortgages selected for appraisal amounted to $104,226,887, an increase of 11 per cent over July and of 115 per cent over August 1937. The highest previous month was June, 1928.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Professional Golf Tough Game But Writing For Magazines Is Just as Bad

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—One is tempted to agree with Gene Sarazen that the professional golfers are the most put-upon class of artists, for great are the impositions and wrongs which they suffer. They travel thousands of miles at much personal expense to play in great and secondary tournaments, knowing that they are bucking a game whose rewards are hardly comparable to the miserable pay-off handed down by the policy racketeers.

The capital prize of the United States open championship is only $1,000 and that of the British open £100, and there can be only one winner each year of each of these paltry tips, though hundreds of good men compete.

Mr. Sarazen's lament is further developed in the current Collier's—a sad story of a crying shame, but less pathetic, on the whole, than that of the ill-used hundreds of professional writers who buck the chancy whims and tastes of the magazines. Here is a large class of more or less qualified performers who not only gamble their time and ability in a highly speculative field but often, when they have turned in first-class work representing diligent digging and fine skill, find their copy tossed back to be tinkered over to suit an editor's arbitrary formula or personal taste.

* * *

In fiction the leading magazines have adopted patterns as rigid as linoleum cuts, roughly comparable to those of the Hollywood trade. Boy and girl must be brought together or left in peril at certain intervals of the serial to mark the installment endings, regardless of the natural history development of the story at the hands of a skilled narrator. So back goes the writer to his desk to sweep aside his mounting bills and do it over. This means, of course, that the continuity, even the plot, must be twisted out of shape and rebuilt, one painful word after another, with no certainty that even when it has been changed to the editor's specifications he will not finally turn it down—just because.

* * *

Natural writing is almost impossible in the field of magazine fiction, what with taboos and house policies and the demand for text to be wrapped around the razor blades and heating systems in the rear of the book. One magazine of national circulation appealing to the country club trade actually bars copy dealing with the lower economic classes on the ground that those who read it do so in the mood of wealth and would be disenchanted by any hint that poverty exists.

Such absurd but practical snobbery seems mean enough on its face, but is a little worse to writers who tempt this fastidious editorial taste for a maximum price of $200.

Editing is an inexact business at best, but it has been complicated by a terrifying jumble of changing and unpredictable house rules and forms and mere personal whims of men who have power to accept or reject copy representing months of work. Undistinguished editors whose absolute limit is $250 or as little as $150 assume the right to instruct skilled men and women to tear apart and rewrite, not once but repeatedly, fiction stories and presentations of fact or opinion and to reject work in the end which, having now been done to their particular orders, is hopelessly unsalable anywhere else.

* * *

Writers of this unhappy class console themselves with the not very nourishing thought that editors are but thwarted writers in more or less human form. However true this thought might be, it buys no pork chops or shoes for the baby, nor does it mitigate the cruelty with which writers are kept dangling.

Magazine writing, except for a very few box office names, is a hay-chasing job, engaging many more earnest workers than professional golf. Like golf, it is almost wholly speculative, but, worse, the writer often is led by hopes and half-promises to perform hard work, taking weeks of time, for which he receives no pay at all in the end.

* * *

In one of our most brilliant slick-paper publications the finished product is a reliable joy, but the casual customer sees nothing of the exactions, the waste of effort and the harsh disappointments which never even reach the hell box.

All that Mr. Sarazen says of golf is true, but there are excellent writers bucking the magazine trade who on reading this piece might be tempted to break out their clubs and try the tournaments. True, they might starve, but that would be no novelty, and golf does keep one out in the open air.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Those MacDonald-Eddy feud stories are getting me down.

I've just been "in" on one. It could be twisted into one of the sweetest little "hate" yarns you ever heard. Maybe that's the way it should be written. There's nothing like a good fight for reader interest, I'm told.

It's on the "Sweethearts" set. This modernized operetta is technicolored and Adrian has gone to town on Jeanette's wardrobe. Today she's wearing a startling thingamajig in BROWN. It's for a big concert scene in which she sings with co-star Eddy.

It seems Eddy was told to get a new suit for the number. It seems he innocently paid off $150 for one of the tailor's best—a light pin-striped BROWN.

But when Nelson put it on he was ruled off base. JEANETTE was in BROWN, hence—quick change for Eddy to trusty blue serge. Then someone had a brainstorm: "Let 'em both wear brown—a duet in brown!"

Another quick change for Eddy, to the brown. And then another, almost at once, this time to quiet GRAY. Because MISS MacDonald was wearing BRO-O-WN. . . .

* * *

Well, I ought to let it drop there. I ought to say that Eddy told me about it with bitterness, and a glare at Jeanette when she passed all radiant in BROWN—and said hello. But I'd be telling one. I ought to say, too, that Nelson made bitter lament when he said:

"Everything's in technicolor—except Eddy. He's a pale pastel. But he foxed 'em once. He put on a brilliant technicolor-blue tie. He kept it covered with his hand until the camera turned. So they'll have to use it in matching scenes!"

Well, he did say it, and maybe he felt it a little, too. But he laughed when he said it, and he was just chinning along about this and that. It hadn't spoiled his day. It's the sort of thing that goes on in pictures all the time—stars looking out for No. 1 in the clinches. And no hard feelings, if the stars have any humor in them. You know Jeanette has, but you might not suspect the stolid-looking Eddy. Here's a sample:

We were talking about how Metro let Deanna Durbin go. And how Judy Garland had to be borrowed by Zanuck before her own studio knew it had a bet. And who knows what would have happened to Hedy LaMarr if Walter Wanger hadn't borrowed her for "Algiers" thus presenting Metro with a star? And suddenly Nelson laughed:

* * *

"Everybody but Eddy," he chuckled. "I just remembered—a long time ago I was loaned out, too, but it didn't work that way. Metro said to Fox, 'All right, you can have Eddy, he isn't doing anything.' So I went to Fox and took a test—for that Gloria Swanson picture 'Music In the Air.' And Fox said to Metro, 'All right, you can have Eddy back—we don't want him!'"

Once on a train a little grandmotherly soul told me she 'adored Nelson Eddy—he's my REAL sweetheart." I think she'll like this one:

Eddy used to have a recording machine at home. He tried out all his songs on it, practiced his lines. I asked him if he still used it.

"Nope," he said, "I just sold it. To John Carroll. Know him? There's a boy who ought to be taken up by one of these studios—handsome devil, dashing, tall, athletic, with a grand baritone. He's making westerns for practically nothing—and HE'S the boy who OUGHT to be in MY spot!"

Many Uses For Jellies In Cooking

(The Home Kitchen.)
By ALICE LYNN BARRY

Jams and jellies are nice enough when used as an accompaniment to bread and butter; but they aren't sufficiently used as ingredients for all kinds of dishes, other desserts. So we have decided to remedy this deficiency by giving some excellent recipes, all of which use jam or jelly as an ingredient.

Next time the family votes in favor of roast chicken, surprise 'em with this marvelous dish, a glazed roast chicken. Season a five-pound roasting chicken and stuff with bread stuffing. Then truss, tie and rub outside surface with salt. Sear in 500 F. oven for 15 minutes, then decrease heat to moderate (350 F.) and roast, covered, one and one-half hours or until nearly tender, basting frequently with a mixture of four tablespoons butter and two-thirds cup hot water. Spread one-half cup red currant jelly, finely-broken with a fork, over chicken and roast, uncovered 30 minutes longer, or until well glazed, basting frequently. The jelly glaze gives a piquant touch.

Danish Red Cabbage.

Danish red cabbage owes much of its flavor to grape jelly. Cook two and one-half quarts shredded red cabbage, two tablespoons sliced onions and two cups thinly-sliced apples in boiling salt water eight to 12 minutes, or until cabbage is tender. Drain; add three tablespoons vinegar, two tablespoons butter, one and one-quarter teaspoon salt and three-quarters cup grape jelly to cabbage, and simmer for five minutes. This recipe makes six portions of this tasty dish.

Savory jam sauce should be served hot to glorify lamb, veal or pork. To make it, melt three-quarters cup red currant jam in double boiler. Add teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, one-quarter teaspoon salt, one quarter teaspoon paprika and two drops of Tabasco sauce, and mix well. This makes about three-quarters cup of sauce.

Newly set trees should be watched and buds which start at a point below where limbs are wanted should be rubbed off. This is called thumb pruning, and it can be kept up for two or three years. It is important to keep young trees, as well as shrubs set out this year, well watered. Not infrequently garden makers thoughtlessly hill up the earth around the base of newly set plants. This is a great mistake, because it sheds the water. A much better plan is to leave the earth in the form of a basin so that the water will be caught and held until it has time to seep through the earth and reach the roots.

Miss Fairfax Answers Questions

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I hope I'm not unduly jealous, but it bores me to tears the way my husband regards his mother. Now, please don't think that there's and Freudian complex business about this, or that he's making up to her for her money, because my mother-in-law is extremely well-to-do, and there's no denying that she's a clever and attractive woman.

But he's always quoting his mother, and telling stories about what she did and said, and that sort of thing, until I'm tired of it. I'm not precisely what you'd call a Dumb Dora. And I suppose I am jealous. How can I make him stop?

Second-Fiddle Daughter-in-Law.

Don't make him stop. Isn't it a great deal better that he should admire his mother than some other woman who'd probably vamp him?

The love that a man has for his wife, and for his mother, are such different emotions, that it's more than foolish for either to harbor jealousy.

* * *

Dear Miss Fairfax:

We were engaged for two years. During that time he paid regularly on a splendid diamond ring. Last Christmas the payments were finished and the ring was really mine, and then for some reason I never could understand we started quarreling, and we disagreed over everything. Sometimes we wouldn't speak for a week, and I would have broken with him, but I hated to give up my ring.

Finally, we did break up, and while he has never asked for the ring, I've understood that he expected me to return it. But, why shouldn't I keep it as a souvenir of the day when we were really happy together. Besides, he hasn't asked to have it back, and I've heard in a roundabout way, coming through his sister, that he expected it. Do you think it would be all right for me to keep it?

S.

It's very bad taste for a girl to keep valuable presents, after an engagement has been broken, whether the ex-fiance demands their return or not. I'm glad your heart doesn't seem to be involved in this matter, as you seem to

Marriage Meddlers

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

Katherine's face was quietly attentive as, at Lillian's behest, she sat down in the window seat beside us, but by the time Lillian had finished her account of Philip Veritzen's telephone call, my kinswoman's eyes were blazing with indignation.

"The colossal egoist!" she exploded. "He appears to think he has only to wave a wand or extend a sceptor, and everybody within a mile will be eager to bow down and do his bidding. Well! here's one lady he isn't going to buffalo, and"—she looked at us shrewdly—"I don't think either of you two will be intimidated."

"If you could see my knees shake," Lillian said quaveringly, and Katherine and I paid her nonsense the ready tribute of soft laughter.

"You see," Lillian went on with a sly glance at me, "I'm the one that's drawn the short end of this toothpick. I have to make a flying tackle, bring Phil to his knees, and render him hors de combat for any previous engagement, and if you can beat that for mixed figures of speech, go to it, with my blessing."

Katherine laughed, but I protested frantically.

"Lillian!" I said. "If you really dread talking to him, I'll—"

"You blessed infant," she said affectionately—"and you'll be that in some respects until you're 90—can't you ever get used to my fooling? I wouldn't miss this chance to gentle my old friend for all the gold coins sunk by the old pirates. And don't think you're going to get out of talking to him. You, as chatelaine of the castle, will greet him first, and receive his demand to see Olga."

"I suppose the correct answer to that will be an appeal to Katherine, asking whether or not her patient can see anyone."

"Correct as—you know what," Lillian retorted. "And now Mr. Bones" — her eyes twinkled at Katherine—"what answer is you going to give Missus Graham when she axes you dat question?"

"Plenty." Katherine answered with a vicious click of her teeth. "I shall say that Olga must on no account be disturbed, and that I think it unwise even to tell her of his presence in the vicinity for several days."

Lillian whistled softly.

"And will that be a nice mess for me to tackle?" she said with a ruefulness her smiling eyes belied. "Will he ever be sore? I'll have to have my wits about me, for he'll think of a million things a minute that will have to be answered."

"I never have noticed your wits absent from you for any appreciable time." Katherine commented. "Phil Veritzen's an able citizen, but my money's on Lillian."

"So is mine," I said with emphasis, and Lillian, rising from her seat, put her hands over her heart and bowed extravagantly.

"There's one more thing to be considered," she said, resuming her seat and her normal, brisk, sensible tones. "What's your opinion, Katrina, about Olna's coming down and seeing the Veritzens when they get here?"

"Do you mean, is Olna able, physically and mentally, also spiritually, to undergo that ordeal?" Katherine queried, and I noticed with surprise that there was a trace of something in her voice which was not whole-hearted admiration of Queen Olga's daughter.

"That's the general idea," Lillian told her, smiling

"Then my answer is a decided 'yes'," Katherine said. "That young woman is competent to do anything her little heart desires, and I'm sure that talking to Noel will come under that category."

The edge in her voice was explained, I told myself, for Katherine is extremely fond of Mary, and resents any possible menace, however vague, to her happiness.

Lillian looked up alertly.

"Just what do you mean by that crack?" she asked. "You have some warrant behind it. I never knew you to say anything like that, without some reason for it. Come on, give us the lowdown."

When next you buy suet, melt it in the oven, and then pour into jars. When cold it is more easily shredded, and will keep much longer.

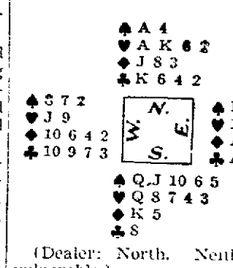
Never open a waffle iron until the steam ceases to come from the iron. The waffle is then done.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay
"The Authority on Authorities"

REDOUBLED INTO GAME

IF YOU HAVE bid a major suit, the first opponent doubled and your partner redoubled, your side is in a game contract. If the second opponent now passes, there is no need to raise your own bid. Making redoubled overtricks would be a fine gift for the foe. By all means pass in this situation. The opponent doesn't dare leave it in, and maybe he will have to bid something which your partner can double for a penalty worth much more than a game. If he doesn't your partner can carry on with his own bidding.



(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

On this deal, East doubled North's 1-Heart bid and South redoubled. After West passed North bid 2-Hearts. After a pass by East, South went to 3-Hearts, wondering just what North was striving for. To South's dismay, North passed this bid. Four was easily made, with the loss of one spade, one diamond and one club.

North should have passed the redouble, as had East allowed it to play there game would have been scored. The correct bidding should have been 1-Heart by North, double by East, redouble by South, pass by North, 2-Diamonds by East, 2-Hearts by South, 3-Hearts by North and 4-Hearts by South. But East, with two biddable 4-carders, ought not double. He should, after 1-Heart, bid 2-Diamonds, intending later to show clubs if possible, but would be shut out by South's 2-Hearts, North's 3-Hearts, then South's 4-Hearts.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, Sept. 9.

UNDER THE current lunar transits, this should be a very lively and eventful day, with some affairs of a sudden and surprising nature. These may effect unexpected journeys, removals or changes, probably in connection with promotion. Elders should prove friendly, contributing to the expensive and stabilizing influence.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year in which some substantial advantage or recognition in employment may call for a sudden change of environs and associations. Superiors and elders may contribute to the stability of the position, with their friendly interest and co-operation, but shun friction in intimate relations.

A child born on this day may be studious and dependable, although its high ambitions may lead it away from the routine and commonly-accepted ideas and vocations. It may be nervous and adventurous, needing the co-operation of its superiors or elders.
